Is Weather Changing?

Roadside Notes: When a cold wave dips all the way down the keys to engulf even Key West and bring a chill to the lonely Dry Tortugas, the effect on the visitor is one to excite compassion. The citrus men, worrying about the fruit freezing on the trees or in the sheds, and the vegetable growers wringing their hands over a few million dollars' worth of onions, tomatoes, carrots, lettuce, et cetera, are understandably sleepless.

But, the various and fascinating variety of purveyors to tourists are the most indignant of all. There is nothing more lonely than a tourist resort with its beaches empty and its sun-chairs and lounges forlorn in the thinly blowing sand. The palms wave mockingly in the frigid wind. The lobbies with their displays of sun glasses, anti-sunburn lotions, and the various items of gossamer for beach wear, seem to be embarrassed.

Every time the cold comes, which is not often, the citrus, vegetable and tourist farmers all share one common subject of conversation. They begin to discuss whether or not this best of all possible worlds may not be tilting a bit more or less on its axis, and if the winters are not growing increasingly cold. Old men and women begin to say it was never like this in their childhood.

Techniques

History refutes them, but modern weather observation techniques are improved, and there is enough new knowledge to lend substance to a theory about cycles of weather which some observers think ebb and flow hot and cold in spans of half a century or thereabouts.

The recent blizzards which brought near zero situations to much of the nation, and caused even Key West to shiver apologetically in front of its visitors, was an illustration of the eccentricities of what we lump under the heading of "weather."

There was, for example, a day when just one degree separated temperatures in Alaska and Gainesville, Fla. Anchorage, Alaska, managed to have 28 degrees on the same day Atlanta, Ga., had 13.

The weatherman has an explanation for the swift invasion of cold which reached so far south. It is easily understood. But, it neither comforts the afflicted nor soothes those who are fearful that the world may be experiencing some mysterious changes in outer space which we and the Russians so diligently are probing.

'The Westerlies'

Miami forecaster Gilbert Clark informs us that what the professionals call "The Westerlies," for about two months, have been lurching about somewhat drunkenly. The Westerlies are great masses of air which, for as long as modern man has known out of his own experience, or that recorded before him, have blown routinely east and west across the nation. They form an invisible barrier against which cold air, flowing down from the North Pole regions, is blunted.

Now and then, in 1958 for example, and again as 1960 neared its appointed end, the Westerlies had periods in which they blew in great loops to the South. These could be located and weathermen put them on maps well down into north Florida.

With the barrier thus deeply dented, cold air from Canada rushed in to fill the vast space thus opened to it. The fact of the southerly swoop of the Westerlies explains also the increase in winds. Once the Westerlies resume their normal course, the cold will be pushed back and the winds subside.

Forecaster Clark says the Westerlies lurched north-south in late November and brought the blizzards which stunned the Midwest and East. In late December they swooped even deeper southward, as they did in 1958 to bring on the severe winter which all Dixie still remembers.

If this southward swooping continues, most of the nation will again have a hard winter.

Reds Attack U.S. Plane Over Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—An attack on an unarmed U.S. plane north of Vientiane focused attention Wednesday on a valley where Soviet airdrops are building up rebel forces.

The plane was hit Tuesday as it flew over the valley to observe a Soviet transport plane dropping supplies to leftist rebels rallying there to battle the pro-Western regime in Laos.

Whether the gunfire came from the jungle or from the Soviet plane was not clear by accounts furnished the U.S. Embassy.

But this first attack on an observation plane indicated that the rebels no longer will tolerate the aerial reconnaissance that has followed their flight from the lost battle of Vientiane.

One reason for a sudden desire for secrecy is that Communist North Viet Nam may be sending in soldiers to help the rebels. One source returning from the valley said he saw North Vietnamese land there from Soviet planes and estimated 100 were now in the valley.

The U.S. plane, a twin-engine Dakota belonging to the U.S. Air Force, was shot down, carried Maj. Armand Riser of Arlington, Va., who is assistant military attaché, and a crew of four.

The attaché's office reported the plane was hit in the left engine and fuselage by small-caliber fire but made it back to Vientiane without injury to those aboard.

The plane was flying on reconnaissance at the Laotian government's request over Vangvieng, a village located in a mountain-ringed valley 65 miles north of Vientiane.

Vangvieng is where Capt. Kong

Vandiver Vows to Finish Stone Mountain Carving

By FRANK WELLS

The Confederate memorial carving on the side of Stone Mountain will be finished, Gov. Vandiver said Wednesday.

Gov. Vandiver orally underlined the word "will" in his prepared speech, but did not specify whether the whole carving would be completed or just that part depicting Gen. Lee and his horse Traveler.

There has been considerable controversy over whether the carving should be completed as originally intended or cleaned up and left as it is—an unfinished memorial to the cause of the Confederacy.

Gov. Vandiver said that the

Balubas Massacre 20 on Congo Train

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Hundreds of rebel Baluba tribesmen massacred at least 20 Africans in three attacks Wednesday on a U.N.-guarded train taking schoolchildren home for a New Year's vacation, a Katanga Province spokesman said.

Scores of others were injured and many of the passengers were kidnapped by rebels after the attacks, the spokesman said. Initial reports reaching Elisabethville were confused but the Katanga government spokesman said it had definitely been established that at least 20 persons were killed.

It was not known here whether any of the dead were children or how many people were injured or kidnapped.

The spokesman said the train, which was taking about 100 school children to their homes in Western Katanga, left Elisabethville Tuesday with some 300 passengers on board. It was protected by a strong guard of U.N. Swedish soldiers.

When the train reached the Kamina, only 40 persons were on board.

The spokesman said the rebels attacked at the towns of Luena, Mukulakulu, and Bukama—all lying on a 30-mile long stretch of railway line about 150 miles west of Elisabethville.

In the first attack at Luena,

BRUSSELS — Premier Gaston Eyskens Wednesday night rejected a Socialist demand that Parliament be called into session Friday.

A spokesman for the delegation of parliamentarians who made the demand said the Premier would be "solely responsible" for anything that happened from now on in the Belgian strike situation.

There were several clashes between police and demonstrators Wednesday, the 10th day of the widespread strike against an omnibus legislative proposal put forward by the premier.

The bill proposes economies, tax increases and a tightening of pension rules and unemployment payment rules. Debate on the measure be-

18 Blasts Rock Propane Plant In New Jersey

BAYONNE, N.J. (AP)—A tremendous explosion rocked the Phillips Petroleum Co. Wednesday night, Bayonne police reported. The company was reported to be a propane gas manufacturer.

The explosion was seen and heard five miles away.

Residents of Port Richmond, Staten Island, across the Kill Van Kull from the site of the blasts, counted a series of 18 explosions followed by flames shooting high in the sky. A general alarm fire resulted.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Ambulance Crash Kills Woman, 40

By KEELER McCARTNEY
And MARION GAINES

Two spectacular highway crashes, one involving an ambulance speeding a gravely wounded man to the hospital, killed two Atlanta area women and injured five men Wednesday.

Cobb County police said Mrs. Beatrice Shuttley, 40, of Powder Springs, was killed when the car in which she was riding collided in west Cobb County with an ambulance rushing a man who had been shot in the head to Keneston Hospital.

NEWLEYWED, 18, KILLED

Atlanta police said a bride of four months, Mrs. Barbara Ann Arnold, 18, of 48 Peachtree Ave., NE, was trapped and burned to death in a small red sports car which was turned into "a raging inferno" in a crackup on the Northeast Expressway. Her husband, H. A. Arnold was at work when notified of the tragedy.

Kennestone officials said John T. Haynes Jr., about 40, of LaGrange, was in "critical" condition from a bullet wound between the eyes. He was not hurt in the highway crash, said Cobb Patrolman J. W. Reid, because the ambulance attendant, Wayne H. Preston of Bowdon, grabbed the cot and shielded his patient.

Preston and Arthur H. Godwin of Bowdon, the ambulance driver, was admitted to Kennestone but hospital officials said they were "not seriously injured."

3 SERIOUSLY INJURED

More seriously hurt, and listed in "satisfactory" condition Wednesday afternoon, were the other occupants of the auto. James Shuttley, Sherlin L. Garrard and Edsel B. Walker, all of Powder Springs.

Carroll County authorities said the Bowdon ambulance began its

Georgians to Get A Break on Taxes

Georgians will be able to make greater deductions on their 1960 state income tax returns for sales taxes paid the state.

State Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford said Wednesday that the Revenue Department has adopted a deduction table which will establish a guide for reasonable sales tax deduction for various groups and family sizes.

This replaces an old system whereby deductions by taxpayers who did not keep receipts were based on a percentage of income on a graduated scale without regard to size of the family unit.

IN LINE WITH U.S.

The change is in conformity with a similar regulation adopted this year by the Internal Revenue Service for federal income tax purposes.

It is applicable to income tax returns filed for calendar 1960.

Oxford said widespread criticism was leveled at the old system and it was termed inadequate to fairly represent true sales tax payments.

Many taxpayers, he said, exceeded the table in filing their income tax returns.

CITES CRITICISM

With the new "liberalized" system, Oxford emphasized, "such criticism is now without foundation." He also said stricter enforcement would be undertaken by the department in checking taxpayer deductions.

The revenue commissioner also pointed out that the new table is merely a guide "and does not establish the right to claim such deductions." The department may require any deductions claimed to be supported by proper evidence, he added.

4 Negroes Ask, Receive Entry Forms from Tech

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Four young Negro men asked for and obtained registration blanks and catalogs Wednesday at the Georgia Institute of Technology.

They did not identify themselves.

The group was accompanied by four adult Negroes.

The move could be a prelude to a possible court suit against Tech. Two Negroes presently are suing for entry to the University of Georgia, and officials at the Georgia State College of Business Administration are under federal court injunction not to discriminate on the basis of race on applications.

Tech registrar W. L. Carmichael said Negroes had picked up application blanks "several" times but never had filed applications.

Carmichael said there was little conversation when the group came to his office Wednesday. He said they asked for blanks, were given them and asked where to obtain catalogs.

The registrar said two of the adult Negroes accompanied the group into his office and two others remained in the hall outside.

Auto on Tracks Loses Race With Train --- and the Police

By HUNTER JAMES

Freight train engineer J. B. Broom lost about 20 minutes of his time in a race with an automobile early Wednesday morning; but Theron Luther George Jr., the driver of the car, lost six months.

Six months is the length of his jail sentence. If this race had been like most others, maybe George wouldn't have gotten the six months, but this time both the train AND the car were on the tracks.

George, 18-year-old resident of southeast Atlanta, was sentenced in a morning session of the DeKalb Civil and Criminal Court.

"If there had been any justification for it, I would have given him a fine and probated the sentence," Judge Oscar Mitchell said. "But when I asked him what was his excuse, he just said he was guilty and didn't have an excuse."

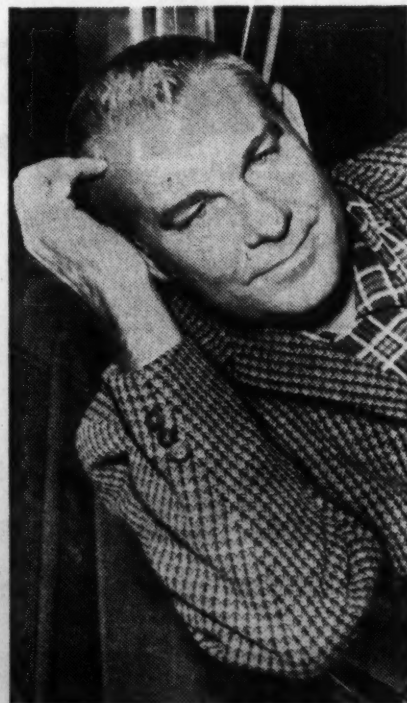

In any case, the race between George and Broom was only a race on the part of George, according to Broom.

The engineer, bringing his fast freight into Atlanta on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad tracks, first spotted the automobile in the 4 a.m. darkness about five miles northeast of the city limits.

The car was running along with its left wheels on the crossties between the rails and its right wheels on the dirt.

But every time the driver came to a trestle where there wasn't any dirt he pulled all four

Bonn, Moscow Agree to Trade; E. Berlin Balks

BERLIN (AP)—West Germany Wednesday reported agreement in its trade talks with the Soviet Union, but negotiations were still deadlocked with Communist East Germany. Failure could bring a New Year's crisis to isolated Berlin.

In Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer talked with Soviet Ambassador Andrei Smirnov. When it was over a West German spokesman announced a new trade treaty would be signed probably before the end of the year. On Dec. 12, the Soviets had refused to sign the agreement.

The trouble was over Berlin. The Soviet Union would not stand for a supplementary West German statement that West Berlin belongs to West Germany's currency area. The Soviet Union wants to make West Berlin a free city, surrounded by Communist territory.

CONFER 6½ HOURS

The spokesman did not say that the Soviet Union had agreed to a West Berlin clause. But if it has, that would raise hopes Communist East Germany will follow suit. West Berlin is also the chief snag in the talks between East and West Germany.

But in Berlin, negotiators for East and West Germany met for the seventh time in the current series of talks, conferred for 6½ hours and announced only that they would meet again Thursday.

East Germany has threatened "serious difficulties" in West Berlin if no agreement is reached by New Year's Eve.

LIFELINE AT STAKE

The difficulties would hit the transport of people and freight across the 110 miles of Communist territory that separate West Berlin from West Germany. Nearly all the food for 2.2 million West Berliners comes this way. So do the supplies for the 10,000-man garrison kept in Berlin by the United States, Britain and France.

East and West Germany fixed up a new and broader accord on exchanges last summer. Then the Communists started interfering with the movement of West Germans to Berlin.

On Sept. 30, West Germany canceled the agreement, effective Jan. 1, in reprisal for the Communist action.

What the West Germans want is some Communist acknowledgment, if only tacit, that interference with freedom of movement to and from Berlin will have an effect on trade.

What the Communists want is a complete separation of trade questions from anything else, and as

Washington Attorney Named Secretary of Air by Kennedy

By W. H. LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.)

PALM BEACH, Fla.—Eugene Zuckert, Washington attorney and former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Wednesday was designated by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be his Secretary of the Air Force.

The President-elect, at the same time, announced the selection of Professor Archibald Cox of the Harvard Law School to be solicitor general of the United States.

He Prefers Opera, Says Truman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman confessed Wednesday he had a fondness for opera and a deep dislike of "The Missouri Waltz."

"I don't even know how to play it on the piano," he said in one of two interviews before returning by train with his wife, Bess, to Independence, Mo.

"I don't like the damned thing, but I've had to listen to it over 40,000 times because people think I do," he said. He said the real name of the waltz was "Hushabye, My Baby."

Later the former chief executive confided that his first love is opera. "I have enough music appreciation to really love those fine old arias," he said.

Truman bid goodbye to his daughter, Margaret, and two grandchildren with whom he spent Christmas. He smiled, posed for photographers and said: "I will see you next time I am in New York."

Harry Truman

the government's principal advocate before the Supreme Court.

These two appointments were the only official business transacted by Kennedy Wednesday. He had no governmental callers at his home, but he had a conference scheduled Thursday on a wide range of foreign policy problems with Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Zuckert's selection for the Air Force subcommittee job came as no surprise. He earlier had been considered for deputy secretary of defense.

Ironically, the other leading contender for Air Force secretary was Harold Stuart of Tulsa, Okla., with whom Zuckert is associated in the practice of law in Washington with the firm of Lear & Scott.

NATIVE OF NEW YORK

A native of New York City and a graduate of Yale, Zuckert later was on the faculty of the Harvard Business School. A long-time close associate of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, Zuckert served with him in the Surplus Property Administration after World War II and was assistant secretary of the Air Force when Symington served as secretary. He was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission from 1952 to 1954.

Cox, a long-time adviser to Kennedy and coordinator of his "brains trust" research and speech-writing crews during the campaign, has specialized in labor-management relations during his professional career. He was adviser to the former Massachusetts senator during his handling of two labor reform bills in 1958 and 1959, and was chairman of a special panel on labor management relations which advised the Senate Labor Committee in 1959.

BORN IN NEW JERSEY

Born in Plainfield, N.J., in 1912, Cox received his B.A. degree from Harvard College in 1934 and his graduation, he served as a law clerk for Justice Learned Hand of the U.S. Court of Appeals Second Circuit in New York.

He was with the Boston law firm of Ropes, Gray, Best, Coolidge and Rugg from 1938 until 1941 when he entered government service, first with the National Defense Mediation Board. He was an attorney in the solicitor general's office from 1941 to 1943, and then he served briefly in both the State and Labor departments.

LECTURER IN 1945

He became a lecturer at the Harvard Law School in 1945, and a professor in 1946. During the Korean War, he served as chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board in 1952-53.

300 Laotians Giving Thailand Big Headache

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand has 300 Laotian soldiers it doesn't know what to do with. The soldiers fled across the border to Thailand at the height of the recent battle for the Laotian capital, Vientiane.

Anti-Communist Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, who won the fight, won't take them back because he doubts their loyalty, say Interior Ministry sources.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said the President-elect was beginning to taper off his calling list so he could get some unbroken vacation time before he assumes the presidential duties.

His only other caller in addition to Sen. Fulbright this week is Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., former Manhattan congressman and son of the late president. He is scheduled for a Friday afternoon conference.

Allied Split on Laos Blocks Firm Stand

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN

(Copyright, 1960, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON—Differences among the Western Allies have prevented a unified stand among them on the deepening crisis in Laos. Diplomatic sources said these differences persist despite the clear evidence of open Communist involvement in favor of the anti-government rebels in Laos.

One basic disagreement concerns attitudes toward the make-up of the government in Vientiane. The British and French believe that no government in Laos can offer much stability unless it includes representatives of neutralist and Pathet Lao elements.

The United States believes that this course opens the door to intrigue and rather early takeover by disciplined Communist elements who would use their participation in the government only as a wedge to increase their power.

One result is that Washington tends to back the present, pro-Western regime of Premier Boua Oum with enthusiasm. The British and French have strong reservations about the ability of this government to restore order and give Laos anything resembling internal peace.

To what extent open Soviet military aid to the Rebels in Laos has been encouraged by Moscow's knowledge of allied differences cannot be determined. But most diplomats here were willing to concede that the absence of a strong and unified stand by the major Western powers had probably provided some stimulus for the uncoordinated airdrop of military supplies by Soviet planes.

All the Western powers apparently share a deep and growing concern about the continuing crisis in the small, southeast Asian kingdom. All see the possibility of miscalculation producing a broadened conflict that could spell disaster for the world.

with developments inside Laos, has tended to reduce and blur Allied differences of outlook and interpretation. The flight of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma to neighboring Cambodia reduced somewhat the "gray area" in Laotian politics and left the situation more clearly drawn in black and white.

Nonetheless, the outlook in London and Paris seems markedly different from that in Washington, and diplomats of all countries concerned appear less than satisfied.

Hawaii's Recount Switches State to Kennedy's Column

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii's recount of its first presidential ballots ended Wednesday with President-elect John F. Kennedy winning by 115 votes.

The recount of Hawaii's 240 precincts gave Kennedy 92,410 and Vice President Richard M. Nixon 92,295.

In a reversal of the state's certified Nov. 8 election returns, Circuit Court Judge Ronald B. Jamieson ruled, in effect, the three Hawaii electoral votes should have gone to Kennedy. The court had ordered the recount Dec. 14 when the Democrats presented evidence of GOP voting irregularities.

Nixon had been certified winner by 141 votes.

Democrats, almost certain Kennedy would win in the recount, filed their three unofficial electoral votes Dec. 19 at the time Hawaii's three Republican electors voted.

Ike to Request Boost for Space

(Copyright, 1960, by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration will propose to Congress in January that appropriations for the civilian space program be increased by nearly $200 million in the coming fiscal year.

As approved by the Budget Bureau after some reductions, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration would receive appropriations of about $1.1 billion in the 1962 fiscal year, which begins in July.

The Eisenhower space budget will be subject to review and revision by the Kennedy administration. The expectation, however, is that the new administration, despite its criticism of the Eisenhower space program, will not make any large across-the-board increases in the civilian space budget.

Instead, major changes are expected in the management of the civilian and military space programs, with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson reactivating the Federal Aeronautics and Space Council to coordinate the space program.

$400,000 Theft an Inside Job

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Police said Wednesday the theft of more than $400,000 from the vault of an armored car firm apparently involved at least one employee of the company.

Officers began trimming their list of suspects in an effort to single out the individual who could lead to a break in one of Florida's largest burglaries.

Detectives and company officials estimated the vault contained about $1 million in cash and checks. How much cash was in the 19 stolen bags remained a question.

The money came from weekend receipts of seven Tampa firms and a shipment of cash for Gulf State Bank of nearby New Port Richey.

Police Inspector O. C. Beynon said several employees of Rasdale Armored Car Service, Inc. had been questioned. He said FBI agents and detectives planned to call several others in for interrogation.

A. R. Rasdale, president of the firm, termed the theft "definitely an inside job. They knew what they were doing and timed the whole thing just right."

Asked how the thieves got into the vault, he replied, "They knew the combination."

Goldfine Forced Back Into Hospital

BOSTON (AP)—Industrialist Bernard Goldfine—facing charges of federal income tax evasion—was ordered back to a hospital Wednesday but it took deputy U.S. marshals several hours to get him to leave his hotel.

Federal Judge George C. Sweeney issued the removal order during the morning. He seeks to determine the competency of the manufacturer to stand trial for alleged evasion of $791,745 in personal and corporate taxes.

Goldfine, 70, gained notoriety through his gifts to high political figures, including Sherman Adams, former advisor to President Eisenhower.

He was discharged from a Washington, D. C., mental hospital last week in custody of his son, Solomon, for private psychiatric care. Solomon took his father to a Boston hotel after a family squabble at the airport over where Goldfine should stay.

U. S. Atty. Elliot L. Richardson said if Goldfine is well enough to be released he may be well enough to stand trial.

N.Y. Judge Threatens to Jail Police Commissioner Kennedy

NEW YORK (UPI)—A judge threatened Wednesday to send New York City's chief of police to jail.

Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, boss of the 23,500-man force that polices the nation's largest city, was cited for contempt and given 10 days to comply with a court order to stop assigning men to special duties without promotions.

Kennedy's force, known as "New York's Finest," arrests more than 175,000 persons every year for various law infractions and hands out about a million parking tickets.

The commissioner was told by State Supreme Court Justice Arthur G. Klein that he would become one of his own statistics unless he halted his "willful and deliberate disobedience to a court order."

Members of the police force have complained that they have been assigned to duties without compensating increases in rank. Kennedy reacted to the court order by eliminating 82 out of a total of 131 of these assignments.

Klein complimented Kennedy for an "unyielding conviction" that he knows what is best for an efficient police force, but said the court could not "shrink" its duty

Blast Traps 2 Deep in Coal Mine

MORGANTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A gas explosion rocked a small coal mine about 30 miles east of here Wednesday, trapping two men about 1,600 feet below the surface.

Preston County Sheriff C. S. Harriman identified the miners as Truman Burke and James Tar-ton, both of Newburg, W. Va., and both 24 years of age.

The first family-size compact Comet's 114" wheelbase (longer than any other compact's) provides spacious comfort other compacts sacrifice, even for six grownups. And there's trunk space for a load of luggage besides: over 28 cubic feet!

Big-car ride—small-car handling The refined suspension (plus the 114" wheelbase) makes Comet's ride steadier and smoother than many standard cars. And you'll find that Comet turns, parks and handles almost as easily as a baby carriage.

Priced with or below the compacts of other makers For all its new fine-car flair, family-size comfort, big-car ride and extra-value features, Comet is priced with or below the compacts of other makers.

New Thrift Power 170 engine for '61 Comet now offers two economy engines—the standard Thrift Power Six plus the new optional Thrift Power 170, for 11% faster highway passing, 22% better acceleration on hills.

One-year or 12,000-mile warranty Every 1961 Comet part (except tires, for which appropriate adjustments are made by their makers) is now warranted by dealers against defects in material and workmanship for one year or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Normal maintenance services and routine replacement of parts such as filters, spark plugs, and ignition points are excepted.

Foreign Service Is Not for Amateurs

The image of U.S. diplomats and other foreign service representatives as incompetent parasites is exaggerated and unjustified. There is a hard core, for instance, of competent and dedicated State department people who hold together the framework of American policy and do a fair job of it.

There's no doubt, however, that the foreign service can be and needs to be strengthened. With U.S. commitments and investments in security now extending to every area of the world, this phase of government has taken on proportions undreamed of two decades ago. It needs to be staffed in a manner commensurate with the task.

President-elect Kennedy's proposed plan to permit career foreign service experts to serve in embassies previously staffed by wealthy political contributors thus deserves enthusiastic endorsement. The diplomatic service no longer is an agency which we can afford to staff with political appointees.

Congress has been stingy with funds to pay expenses of our embassies abroad. Countries with lesser resources allow ambassadors and other foreign service officials greater expense accounts for entertainment, a necessary ingredient of diplomacy. This has tended to restrict the field in top posts to political payoffs.

In top posts and throughout the whole foreign service, the United States needs topflight people, trained in diplomacy. In the growing struggle between two worlds, we can afford no less.

If Mr. Thompson Has Point, Let Him Make It

A second grand jury has failed to recommend reappointment of Standish Thompson as Fulton County tax commissioner.

As we have said before, our impression is that Mr. Thompson has done a good and conscientious job in the office. We questioned the first grand jury's action in not hearing Mr. Thompson.

However, the second grand jury heard him fully. Again he was rejected. If his legal rights were fully respected in the process, this seems to us to end the matter and leaves County Manager A. E. Fuller no alternative but to go ahead and select a successor.

Since Mr. Thompson has retained counsel to advise him as to whether he has received his full legal rights, however, it seems only fair that Mr. Fuller grant him the time necessary to assure that he has been accorded due process.

DeKalb Expects More From Mr. Emmerich

Generally at a testimonial dinner the oratory is restricted to glittering generalities.

Tuesday night Charles Emmerich talked instead at a dinner in his honor about the pressing needs of DeKalb County.

There was nothing extraordinary about the speech. It would have been disappointing, in fact, if it had not come on an occasion when nothing political was expected.

But we hope the speech indicates that Mr. Emmerich, when he becomes the county's commission chairman, is going to be a man from whom the unconventional is to be expected.

DeKalb is not an ordinary county. Its problems are unique. Its leadership must, therefore, be new, unconventional.

Mr. Emmerich was not a politician until now. His freshness is an asset. Outlining needs at a dinner such as that held Tuesday night is fine. We hope to hear less of that and more of outlining solutions in the months ahead. DeKalb expects a great deal from Mr. Emmerich.

Here's Another Reason For Two-Party System

William B. Shartzer, state Republican Central Committee chairman, could well have a valid point in contending that his party received a higher percentage of the presidential vote in Georgia than the official tally showed.

He cited specifically voting irregularities in Telfair. While what happened there is not typical of all counties, certainly it gives reason to question how many votes were cast illegally in Georgia.

One safeguard against shenanigans with ballots would be the development of a strong two-party system, with all the checks and balances that go along with it.

In order to be effective, though, it will have to be planted more firmly at the grass-roots level. Some strides in that direction have been made but not nearly enough to make much of a dent in the machinery of the one-party system.

It Took Too Long To End Barber Mess

When a Thomaston barber told The Constitution he had paid for a barber's license in March and still hadn't received it at Christmas, Reporter Jack Nelson investigated and found dozens of other barbers and beauticians had suffered the same treatment over a period of months.

The member of the State Barbers Board who acknowledged such loose handling of the remittances was instantly asked by Gov. Vandiver to resign for "conduct incompatible with that required of any public official."

The governor thus added to his reputation as a public official who will not put up with haphazard handling of a citizen's money, once he hears about it. But he obviously did not hear about it soon enough from his responsible officials. Some 40 other cases of belated remittances were on the board member's record.

Delay on Sibley Report Is Unnecessary Risk

The League of Women Voters of Georgia has joined the growing number of state civic groups urging the 1961 General Assembly to take action to save the public school system and to avoid a $30,000-a-day special session.

In a letter to members of the legislature, League president, Mrs. Edward M. Vinson, points out that the regular session beginning in January will be able to exercise a control over the choice of alternatives that it may not have after the crisis hits.

"The courts have already ordered a placement plan enforced as of Sept. 1 in Atlanta," Mrs. Vinson declared. "The people of Georgia know already that the courts have spoken and that you as their representatives must resolve the legal conflicts or else that public schools will close, which they will not tolerate."

Elsewhere a Georgia business group has urged that any decision to close the public schools be left up to individual communities. The Dalton Chamber of Commerce has submitted a resolution to this effect to state officials.

The vehicle to prevent school closings and to allow a maximum of local control is available to the General Assembly. It is the majority report of the Sibley Commission which would permit state and local action within the framework of federal court decisions.

Under our antiquated fee system, just about anything goes in some sections of the state as long as the fee is collected. There should be a point system, as suggested by Maj. R. H. Burson of the state patrol, whereby serious violators can be called in for interviews and training. If a person is found to be mentally or physically unfit to drive, his license should be revoked until such time as he is able to qualify.

But under the loose system that prevails, there have been complaints of numerous courts in the state failing to report drunk driving convictions to the state patrol as required. But there will not be a uniform traffic court system so long as the fee system prevails. There will not be an adequate force on patrol duty until the people become sufficiently indignant at the present rate of slaughter.

These are some of the changes that need to be made. The people have a choice: See to it that safety measures on the highway are beefed up or continue to pay the price of apathy with blood.—BILL HARRELL.

Eugene Patterson

Politics of Future Is Planted Now

One must stop and read the sentence a second time to grasp the size of it. "The latest census shows that we have lost 60,000 farms in the past five years." Sixty thousand Georgia farms, gone with the wind since 1955.

J. W. Fanning, the agricultural economist who made the report Tuesday, efficiently computed the effect of this revolution on the land and its yield. He found the year's harvests good.

But what is happening to the people involved now that farms, in Mr. Fanning's words, "command less labor?" Some live on where they are, but work in town. Some move into industry, or into service occupations. Others migrate. What the over-all effect on our agricultural system will be, however, "remains to be determined," Mr. Fanning says quite frankly.

And the eventual determination will decide what sort of state Georgia is going to be—laggard or leader.

The small farmer who stays on the land faces narrowing decisions. He must have a cash crop. Tobacco, maybe, or cotton. He hires machinery instead of labor; amount of cotton picked by machines more than tripled this year over last—machines that do the jobs of 60 men. Quite apart from what happens to the 60 men, what is the one small farmer to do with his other acres?

Livestock is an obvious answer. Georgia has to import beef. So why not raise cattle? The farmer weighs one calf a year against two litters of pigs a year and chooses hogs for quicker sale. Or poultry. Hogs and chickens require grain feeding. So he plants corn, and grows more than 80 million bushels of it. He still must import 50 million more from the Midwest as feed. Then he exports poultry and pork. Where is the balance? Plant more corn and sell commercially to other men who raise hogs? Or quit hogs and go to cattle, which are in greater demand? Or swing all the way over to produce, and risk a price slump on selling day when perishables must be sold, whatever the price? Can any combination of these crops compete with the big farmer down the road anyway? The small farmer weighs, works and waits.

And rapidly the pressures of machinery, big competition and small return force him off the land also to work for a wage somewhere. Where? That "remains to be determined."

These people and their children must have jobs. Georgia is not creating enough new jobs or a big enough politics to represent and provide for the families left over from the farming revolution. Thousands have left the state while creation of new industry follows a leisurely course. Industrial development today is as surely a part of agriculture's future in Georgia as the mechanical cotton picker. Gov. Vandiver has beefed up the State Commerce Department with an advisory commission to figure it out. The state will need to provide the money to back it up.

It is in this area of change that the state's future political leadership must move. For politics is of the people, and the people are moving.

Russia Pushing Kennedy Talks

WASHINGTON—The Soviet government seems extremely eager these days to establish new lines of communication with President-elect Kennedy and his associates. Moscow's envoy in Washington, Mikhail Menshikov, obviously on instructions from his government, recently has been initiating meetings with a great variety of politicians, emphasizing the importance of reopening talks between Kennedy and Khrushchev or their representatives.

This is not particularly courteous either to President Eisenhower or Kennedy, but it is happening not only here but in third capitals, where people who are supposed to know Kennedy are being told that Khrushchev wants to end the diplomatic stalemate with the United States.

Kennedy has been both cool and correct about these indirect overtures. He is ignoring them for the time being. He will continue to do so until after he is inaugurated, and even then he is likely to approach this proposition with caution.

No doubt the Soviets have reasons for wanting to talk. They have been in a dispute with the Chinese Communists over dealing with the United States. Khrushchev has been arguing that he can deal with the capitalists. The Chinese are skeptical that this would do any good and have been proposing a more hostile policy.

Khrushchev probably is under pressure to demonstrate that "peaceful coexistence" with the West is a good idea and nobody here prefers Peiping's tougher policy over Khrushchev's. Nevertheless, Kennedy obviously doesn't want to talk to Adenauer or De Gaulle or Macmillan early in his administration, let alone Khrushchev, and he cannot designate somebody else to talk to other Moscow representatives until he has worked out his policy's main lines.

In due course, new communication channels will be available between Washington and Moscow. The Russians always have admired Adlai E. Stevenson. He will be at the U.N. It was at the United Nations that the negotiations started that ended the Soviet blockade of Berlin. This is one of many points of contact that can be used once the Kennedy administration has had time to clarify its positions.

The incoming secretary of state, Dean Rusk, already has stated his opposition to inadequately prepared summit meetings. Accordingly, Ambassador Menshikov is wasting his vodka on these private luncheons with Kennedy's friends on Sixteenth Street.

Even those who have favored summit meetings in the past agree that Kennedy should be allowed to get into the White House before Moscow starts applying the pressure.

These Problems Can't Be Ignored

PARIS—By exploding its third atomic bomb France brought into critical focus burning problems that cannot further be ignored. The first is scale. There will inevitably be fifth, sixth and seventh nuclear powers this decade unless international action halts the trend.

The second is that agreements to cease testing, as the Soviet-American moratorium, will lose their meaning unless extended to all nations with atomic capabilities, like France, or nearing such capabilities, like China, Sweden or Israel.

The third is that existing alliances, for example either NATO or the Warsaw Pact, must soon rearrange their strategic controls and dispositions and arrive at some form of nuclear weapons sharing—unless world disarmament begins.

We had already experienced two political crises concerning nuclear arms during the month prior to this morning's French explosion. First of all, the United States made a conditional offer to give its NATO allies a share of control over atomic weapons systems, thus stimulating a debate which still bubbles. If the project is eventually endorsed by the Kennedy administration and NATO, the Russians will surely adapt some approximately similar system in their European alliance. That would then produce the need for a decision concerning China which has so far unsuccessfully sought to obtain Soviet nuclear arms.

The second crisis involved Israel. The Israelis had camouflaged construction of a pile in the Negev and rumors suddenly circulated this month that it was intended to manufacture fissionable material for arms. This has been denied. But a current of alarm still resounds in the Middle East.

The problem transcends its military aspects. Unhappily, it becomes more and more likely that, should another war be allowed to develop, A-weapons will be used.

But that would ultimately mean disaster. U.S. and Soviet scientists are now capable of fabricating so-called "begator" and "gigaton" warheads which could blot out entire countries.

The logic used by generals may be right but the quantum revolution in arms manufacture reduces that logic to kindergarten dimensions. If a half dozen new nations start making ordinary A-bombs and then one employs them, some day, someone is going to trigger off a "gigaton." That would put period to history. It is time for the statesmen to act.

'It's Something New! What You Can Do . . . Not Who You Know'

Pulse of the Public

'Sit-ins Are Not Things To Argue With; They're Conditions To Manage,' He Says

Milledgeville — How fervently one wants to murmur amen to everything Mr. Richardson says (in Pulse of the Public, Dec. 22). But it won't wash. The Atlanta sit-ins were initiated, one recalls, on an essentially token basis in order to effect a change in eating practice in stores otherwise operating without discrimination in service. It was expected that responsible people, thus prodded, would be able to negotiate the same reasonable settlement which had been effected in so many cities elsewhere in the South.

Although the sit-ins ceased for a month in deference to "the ministry of reconciliation" set up under der the direction of Atlanta's able mayor, the effort failed.

The amenities prevailed, I am sure. The refusal was couched as a postponement, a laying on the table. The time is not ripe, the school crisis has to be handled first, etc., etc. In whatever manner the failure actually took place, the fact remains that the Negroes have offered to resume consultations and have been turned down. Both actions are doubtless maneuvers in the politics of pressure. And the practicing moderates, I am sure, remain at work, desperately but quietly seeking a solution, as they should.

Mr. Richardson feels confident, I am sure, that he understands all this. Actually he does not, or he would not have burst into print. If logic will not work, if perfect solutions are not possible — and I agree completely — why, then, does he try logic on the sit-ins and Martin Luther King, when he obviously has given up on the extremists of his own race?

The sit-ins are not things to argue with, they are conditions to manage, they are part of the problem to be dealt with. If one is going to be a moderate and engage in the supremely difficult task of restoring communications and mediating solutions, one does not begin by insisting upon a return to the verbalism, the slogans, the "understandings" that led to the breakdown. One would have to begin with the minds of Dick Rich and Frank Neely or whoever it was that refused to accept the situation as it was and to go to work on that basis.

The moderator has to begin with the situation as it is, he has to accept the whole, complex, dark tangle for what it is, where it is, and how it is. He, above all, cannot afford to let the antagonisms and the pressures dull his own effort to mediate because they happen to pierce his own thin armor of feelings. It is interesting that Mayor Hartfield has not taken pen in hand to write as Mr. Richardson writes.

This probably does not make sense to you, because I believe you share the frame of mind in which Mr. Richardson writes. I do not know how to explain what seems to me the logic of it. I do believe, with Mr. Richardson and you, that only the moderates, or rather the moderators, can do the job which needs to be done. But I do not get the impression from Mr. Richardson's letter that he has ever been engaged in the job of being a moderator or really knows what it involves. His idea of "the ministry of reconciliation" seems to me completely unrealistic.

All this may be completely unfair. But of one thing I am reasonably sure. If a white person finds his gorge rising at the smug assumption of moral and religious superiority on the part of the new Negro, he has misplaced his sense of humor for one thing. And for another, he does not yet qualify as a practicing and effective reconciler. When are we going to allow the Negro to be as human as we are?

GEORGE BEISWANGER.

Faraway Places Call 'Irritated' Atlantans

Atlanta—"Fair Dinkum Southernner" of Athens in a recent epistle listed Australia as a good place for disgruntled Southerners to migrate to. He listed various expediting factors such as a tyrannical federal judiciary and one-sided newspapers.

In my humble opinion, Dink overlooked some of our really irritating hair-shirts. High on my list of reasons for shaking the dust of America from my well-worn shoe soles would be, in the order named: withholding taxes, state and federal; nuisance variety sales taxes such as we have in Georgia; county unit system; corrupt public officials; Georgia police; speed traps; Billy Graham; inflation; and the high cost of living which now makes it possible for a man making $7,000 a year in this country to starve to death.

"Force bills," as my daddy used to call 'em, implemented by the caricatures we have for federal judges these days which tell us to whom we are to mix and go with school, are just one more reason why I keep hearing that old tune—"faraway places with strange sounding names . . ." are calling, calling me.

SEYMOUR SCULL.

'Why No Comment On Negro Beating?'

Ludowici—About a week ago I read in your paper of a Negro man who "was followed from the downtown section by three youthful Negroes and severely beaten after purchasing a pair of shoes for his young daughter."

According to your news story Capt. R. E. Little of the Atlanta police "said the shoes were purchased at a Peachtree street shoe store which was not being picketed. He said however, it was adjacent to a 10-cent store where pickets were marching. The shoes disappeared from the victim's car while the beating was in progress. Little said he was told. He said the victim was warned before and after the beating to "stay out of the downtown section."

As far as I have been able to see, you, who are usually so quick on the draw to condemn violence, have had no editorial comment on the incident. Nor have there been any reports of any of the other bleeding hearts who normally get so worked up over this type of thing making any statement or issuing any manifesto.

What's the matter? Is violence to be condemned on one side and condoned on the other? I personally am opposed to fear and intimidation by whomever it is practiced.

'How Can a Citizen Help on Local Laws?'

Fitzgerald—You keep saying on all issues, schools, integration, planning, industrial development, that action is needed on the local level. But, you never go so far as to say just how an interested, active, intelligent citizen can help on the so-called "local level." Where do we start? Talk is cheap, cheaper than newsprint! Let's have some!

AN INTERESTED CITIZEN.

He Says He's Tired Of Both Extremes

Madison—I wish to congratulate Mr. Ralph W. Richardson Jr. for the fine letter published in your paper. He pinpointed our weakness when he wrote that the middle man's voice was being drowned out by such foolish white extremists as our leader from Augusta and our more foolish colored extremist from Atlanta.

I, for one, am tired of both and wish to congratulate your paper on the space allowed Mr. Richardson's letter.

A. R. ATTAWAY.

Eddie Barker'It May Be Me This Time,'
She Said, Looking Into Future

Each day, and sometimes into the nights, the woman will call. She always has something to say. You cannot remain angry at her long because before you know it there is laughter on the line and on your end of the receiver there is something to make you smile. It was strange, then, the way the woman sounded when last she called before the break for Christmas. "This," she said, "may be the last time I ever talk to you." At deadline time this would have been greeted with a grin.

But now there was time, so I asked the question which would open the floodgates.

"Why?"

The woman said she would have to begin at the beginning.

"I have always been able to feel things very strongly." She begged me not to believe her some kind of a nut, but to remember that she was smart. A government girl during the war, a professional secretary, a buyer. Many other positions of proper posture.

"I've always been able to feel things very strongly. I can tell when something is going to happen to someone near me, or to me personally.

"Once my brother left on a train. I later went in to our mother and said that something was going to happen. I told her I could see him falling from a train.

"Sure enough a call came. My brother had fallen from a train, under the wheels, and was, of course, killed."

The woman tried to examine her emotions at the time of trials. "It is something in my stomach. That is where I get the strange feelings."

"Once my daughter came rushing to me. Her daddy was away. She was crying. 'I know,' I told her, 'your father has been drowned.'"

"And he had gone under with a boat."

The woman said she was calling to warn me why maybe she wouldn't be calling any more. The feeling, she said, was there in her stomach.

This time it may mean her. She had felt this way when her brother was killed, when her mother died, when her first husband was drowned. She had felt that way when her second husband fell injured in a crippling accident.

Her people were running out. "It may be me this time."

Once before she had the warning about herself but discounted the feeling. "Each time I try, I say this can't be right. No one really has this power to predict accidents. But one time I had it and continued on a trip. I wrecked, and was almost killed."

Dramatic, overdone perhaps, but she said she wanted to leave her name with me. And if anything happened, please put it in that she had said something would happen so those who didn't believe would see. I've looked at all holiday death notices without seeing the name of Mrs. Ruby Wiley.

But I've no more calls, either. And that is why I have worried.

Robert V. OzmentWorries Are Excess Baggage That True Faith Can Relieve

When you travel by air, your luggage is always weighed. You are allowed to take a certain number of pounds free. If you have over the prescribed limit, it is called excess baggage and you are required to pay an additional charge for this. In a sense, life is like that. We are capable of carrying a limited amount of baggage. Beyond this minimum capacity, we must pay extra. God has given us a marvelous mind and body; yet we cannot bear the cares of yesterday, the responsibilities of today and the expectations of tomorrow without falling under its weight.

We worry about our health. We worry about financial security. We worry about the safety and well-being of our loved ones. We even worry about other people not liking us.

I have come to the conclusion that worry is one of our greatest enemies. It will destroy our health. It keeps us from effectively executing today's responsibilities; therefore worry will send us into the future utterly unprepared to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

Finally, it reflects our lack of faith in a loving, good and all-wise God. We are told that about 40 per cent of our big business executives in this country die from stomach ulcers, heart diseases and high blood pressure. These are agitated by tension and worry.

Faith in God is the best prescription I know that will relieve worry. If we truly believe that God is good, we have no basis for worry. If we say as our daily litany that God is all-wise, then we can accept with courage and serenity all the experiences of life. When we come to believe that God loves us and works for our best interests, we can leave yesterday in His hands, do our work today and trust Him with tomorrow.

Jesus reminded His disciples once that no situation in life is hopeless. "The things which are impossible with men," He said, "are possible with God." (Luke 18:27) Here is an invitation to take our little frets and cares to God. They may be completely beyond our ability to solve but when we lift them to God, He is able to give us the solution.

We sometimes forget that God is still the moving force behind the universe. God wants to cure each of us from needless worry and useless anxiety, and His power is available to us at all times.

Before you begin to let worry get you down, try this little prescription. Say very slowly and reverently, "God is my refuge and underneath are His everlasting arms. I am His child and He loves me." Say this 10 times and you will discover a power greater than you have known before.

Celestine SibleyWhy Won't Anyone Say a Word
In Behalf of City Neighbors?

There was a story the other day about the wife of one of the new Cabinet members and it began with this accolade, "She is the kind of woman you'd like to have for a neighbor." I read the story carefully to see how such a sweeping compliment was going to be documented and all I found was that the lady was simple and home-loving and quite a hand at the fine art of domesticity. All these are great attributes, I admit, but they're not enough to guarantee that this lady or any other will be that pearl of great price, that personage without peer—the good neighbor.

The Bible speaks of neighborliness as if it were a special talent worthy of assiduous cultivation and I believe it is. Few people are born knowing how to be good neighbors. It is an attitude of heart and spirit, a skill that often comes with adversity. And you find it occasionally in the most unlikely places.

Small town and country people have the reputation for being superlative neighbors—close, warm friends who bear with you in trouble and "do" for you in time of grief. This is true, of course, but you get this intimacy at some cost, too.

They know all—and frequently tell all—about you.

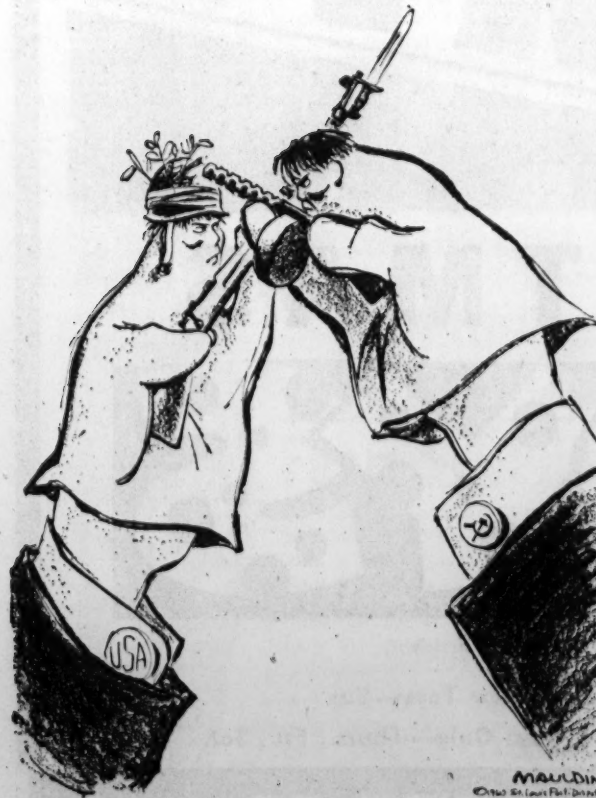

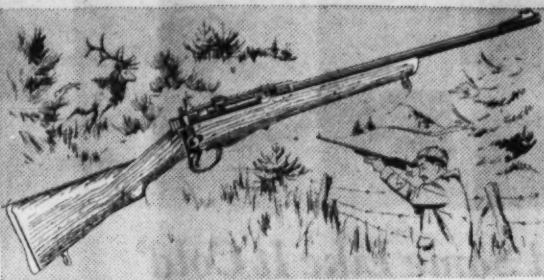

I wonder why nobody ever lifts his voice in praise of the city neighbor, that poor beleagued fellow who lives so close he can't be spared much of the turbulence that rocks your house and yet keeps a polite and detached distance? I wonder why nobody ever eulogizes the neighborliness that gives privacy, the kindness that doesn't meddle, the friendliness that doesn't gossip?

City neighbors have it harder than small town neighbors. Usually they know practically nothing about you. They didn't know your parents or your grandparents. They frequently go to a different church, shop at a different store and sometimes even send their children to different schools. And yet they live so close the squabbles and meriment that jar your rooftree cause theirs to tremble a little. Your trees gorge their gutters with leaves in the fall, your dog chases their cat, the rainfall that waters your flowers gathers flood force and sweeps theirs away. Your television programs fight with theirs, your son's trombone lesson shatters their solitude. If you're ill in the night your lights intrude in their homes.

Being good neighbors, they endure and are tolerant. They lend you garden tools and water your flowers when you are away in the summer. They receive packages for you that are delivered when you're absent. If you leave something on the stove and remember it halfway to the mountains they will cheerfully break in and put out the conflagration for you. In time of illness or death they rally 'round like small town and country folks have ever done—with salads and cakes and covered dishes.

The new cabinet wife may indeed be the kind of person I'd like to have for a neighbor but I'm glad I don't have to swap one of the tried and true ones I have for her. It takes years to break in a neighbor.

emergency run after Haynes was discovered shot between the eyes at the home of his father, a farmer near Bowdon. A .22-cal. rifle was found at Haynes' side, and officers said he apparently had shot himself.

Patrolman Reid said preliminary investigation indicated the car driven by James Shutley pulled into the path of the ambulance on the MacLand-Dallas road in west Cobb County.

SLAMMED TOGETHER

"They slammed together before they knew it," said Reid. "The ambulance was spun sideways and knocked 132 feet from the point of impact."

The force of the collision sent the Shutley vehicle careening for some 72 feet before it halted in a field near the roadside, Reid said.

In the Northeast Expressway smashup, Atlanta Patrolman G. J. Puckett said several persons, including two homicide detectives, tried to rescue Mrs. Arnold from the blazing sports car but were driven back by the intense heat.

RESCUE ATTEMPTED

Among the first to reach the scene was Jimmy Hogan of 1433

Venetian Dr., SW, whose hair and eyebrows were singed when he attempted to reach Mrs. Arnold.

Puckett said he was told the small car suddenly burst into flames, apparently from a gas-line leakage.

The car veered across the roadway and struck a bridge column 150 feet away, Puckett said.

First witnesses to reach the scene said the young woman was pounding at the door in an effort to get out, Puckett said.

RUNS TO HELP

Charles Daniel, of 1149 Northside Dr., NW, said he immediately stopped and ran to help the driver as did Hagan, who was driving south. G. N. Blaney, of Rte. 4, Lawrenceville, obtained a fire extinguisher and attempted to reach the trapped driver.

Detectives M. H. Medert and F. J. Hasty said they saw the small car ram the bridge abutment. They said they turned on their siren, but traffic impeded them.

"The car was a raging inferno when we got there," Medert said. "You couldn't get within 10 feet of it."

3 VEHICLES CRASH

A three-vehicle crash developed some distance away when a fire truck attempted to reach the scene.

Patrolman S. E. Nicholas said he was told William M. Poole, 16, of 2463 Warwick Circle, NE, attempted to pull around the fire truck, and his car struck another operated by Ernest Knox, 52, of 220 Scott St., who had stopped for the fire truck.

Knox' vehicle was hurled into an auto driven by Oscar J. Jolley, 37, of 2705 North Druid Hills Rd., Nicholas said. The Jolley auto was overturned and Stephen J. Palmer, 59, of 3723 Narmore Drive, NE, a passenger in the Knox auto, was hurled out and suffered lacerations and bruises.

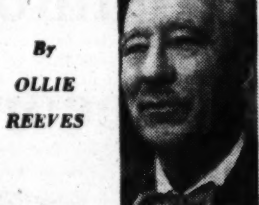

Nicholas said Poole was charged with improper changing traffic lanes and accident.

Mrs. Arnold was the former Miss Barbara Ann Gresham. She attended Bass High School before her marriage. Her husband is employed as a steel construction estimator for Sullivan and Co. She was an Episcopalian.

Surviving in addition to her husband, are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gresham, and a sister, Miss Janet Gresham, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be announced by A. S. Turner & Sons.

"Millions of people are benefited by gifts and bequests of wealthy men. Andrew Carnegie, who endowed so many libraries, is a notable example."—Article quote.

The poor are with us and will be . . . Until the end of time, no doubt . . . As long as rivers seek the sea . . . And tides keep flowing in and out . . . The rich are often envied by . . . The poor, who think they are unkind . . . Forgetting rich men also die . . . And leave all of that loot behind.

Sometimes they leave it to the schools . . . Museums, galleries of art . . . Playgrounds and parks, with swimming pools . . . And other things, when they depart . . . Foundations for the public health . . . Hospitals or a lecture hall . . . And, finally, all share the wealth . . . Although each portion may be small.

Great numbers share the benefits . . . When one of those great millionaires . . . At last decides to call it "quits" . . . And clambers up those golden stairs . . . And though we never go to sea . . . We know just how an ocean looks . . . Thanks to Mr. Carnegie . . . And his libraries filled with books.

Vandiver Promises Mountain Carving

416-acre lake at Stone Mountain State Park.

Vandiver turned his first "shovel" of earth at the dam by helping drive a huge bulldozer pulling an earthmoving machine which picked up a "shovel" containing 21 cubic yards of earth. He later used the old-fashioned spade method for photographers.

The governor told the handful of people who braved the cold winds off the mountain that "it has been our purpose—now it is our project—to make this 'beloved rock' a great landmark to which all the South can point with pride, a landmark with a message for all the world."

CABLE CAR BY APRIL

The governor said that by next April an airlift will be carrying passengers by cablecar from the base to the top of the mountain, swinging out in the air just past the carving on the steep face.

'... And Some Like It Cold'

DENVER—Frank, a polar bear at Denver City Park Zoo, is having the time of his life as temperatures plunge to sub-freezing in the Denver area. Watching his antics may raise chill bumps on spectators, but Frank loves it. He drips with water, left, after emerging from his icy swimming pool, then takes a nice, cooling roll in the snow.

Laotian Red Guns Cripple U.S. Plane

Le's paratroops halted their retreat from Vientiane after being driven out by pro-Western forces of Premier Bouin Oum in mid-December. They are supported by pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas.

WATCHING DROPS

A spokesman for the attaché said Riser was flying over a Soviet Ilyushin 14 transport to see what kind of equipment it was parachuting to the rebels.

"It is not certain the fire came from the Soviet plane," the spokesman said. But a military expert pointed out that it is difficult to hit a plane by firing from under jungle foliage.

The Ilyushin 14 is no normally an armed plane, the spokesman said, so it could have been that a man was firing from the plane's door or the navigator's dome on top.

MAY PROTEST

In Washington, a U.S. State Department spokesman said there might be reason for a protest to the Soviet Union if the gunfire came from the Soviet transport.

But the spokesman and other State Department officials declined toward the view that the U.S. plane, flying at an altitude of 2,000 feet, had been hit from the ground.

LITTLE TO SHOW

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., meanwhile said there is little to show for some $300 million in U.S. foreign aid expenditures in Laos other than "chaos, discontent and armies on the loose."

In a statement, he said it is highly problematical whether the tiny nation's neutrality can be preserved. He also foresaw a strong possibility that the Laotian people will be subjected to a blood bath.

PERSONAL OPINION

Mansfield, who is expected to become the Democratic leader in the new Senate convening next week, said he was expressing only his personal opinion.

"The situation in Laos, after four months of extreme difficulty, seems to be going from bad to worse," he said. "There were various elements striving for control and, although they have now been reduced to two in Laos, no one seems to know who is who and what is what."

DOUBTS WISDOM

"It is evident that American policies, which have been responsible for the expenditure of approximately $300 million in aid in that small land-locked country during the past six or seven years, represent a gross overcommitment, a condition which was foreshadowed and noted as long ago as 1954."

"There is little to show for these expenditures but chaos, discontent, armies on the loose, and a large U.S. mission of hundreds of officials in Vientiane."

Crash Kills East Point Father, 22

RAINSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A 22-year-old East Point man was killed instantly here Tuesday afternoon in the collision of two trucks.

He was identified as Melvin Eugene Cain of 1256 Oakland Terr., East Point, by the Alabama Highway Patrol office in Gadsden.

Cain, a passenger in one of the trucks, was thrown from the vehicle by the impact and suffered a broken neck and fractured skull, the patrol reported.

The smashup occurred on Alabama 35 within the city limits of Rainsville.

Cain was an employee of Thompson Bros. Floor Co. in Atlanta. He was a native of Cherokee County and had lived in Atlanta most of his life. He was a member of the Baptist Church and the Army reserve.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Betty Comer of East Point; son, Mark Cain, East Point; parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cain, Decatur; brother, Ralph Cain, Decatur, and three sisters, Mrs. W. H. North, Atlanta; Mrs. F. W. Feltman, Austell, and Mrs. L. W. Brewer, Bad Tolz, Germany.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Trinity Chapel, the Rev. Raymond Hicks officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Cemetery.

wheels up on the crossties and bumped on across.

"I'll be swan if I know why he didn't run over him or why he didn't run off the trestle or something," Broom said.

"If we'd come on that guy anywhere else along there we'd have overrun him sure."

"We happened to see him on a straight stretch, but after that we lost sight of him because of all the curves and hills and I didn't make more than seven or eight miles an hour because I was afraid I'd run over him."

Broom said he turned to the fireman and brakeman and asked them if they had ever seen anything like that before.

"Nope," said the fireman.

"Me, neither," said the brakeman.

LOOKED FOR SPILL

Every time the train went over a trestle Broom looked down to see if the driver had spilled onto the highway below.

"We crossed three trestles in all," Broom said, "and he wasn't down there under any of them."

Broom crept along for about four miles, straining his eyes in the dark, but he didn't see the car again until he had crossed the Clairmont Road overpass.

THEY LAUGHED

"Then we saw him standing up there right in the middle of the tracks and laughing at us and waving his hands. So I laughed about that time, too, and got out to see what had happened."

"I didn't get a chance to talk to him much because the cops came up about that time."

When George was taken away to jail, he shouted for Broom to get a cable and pull his car off the tracks.

Broom laughed again. "I reckon he's afraid a train might hit it," he said.

GEORGIA NEWS ROUNDUP

Youth in Killing Free Minus Bond

SAVANNAH—A Savannah teen-ager accused of the shotgun slaying of his stepfather during a family quarrel was released without bond Wednesday into the custody of his neighbors.

College Pk. School to Open Soon

The $780,000 high school in College Park will open Jan. 23, relieving crowded conditions at Campbell High School in Fairburn and Headland High in East Point.

About 345 white students will be transferred to the new school to begin the second semester, Fulton School Supt. Paul West said Wednesday.

West also said that six new schools and additions at 13 others are planned. A $3.3 million bond issue to finance this program will be voted on Tuesday, Jan. 24, by Fulton countians.

An additional $2.4 million in state matching funds would be added to the bond issue money for the capital outlay expenditures, Fulton officials said.

A white high school at Sandy Springs and a College Park Negro high school would be built with the money, West said. White elementary schools are planned in the Dodson Drive area, on Old National Highway and in Sandy Springs. An elementary school for Negroes is planned in College Park.

Additions at white high schools are planned in College Park, Fairburn, Hapeville, Headland, Lake Shore and Russell. Additions to white elementary schools would be built at Alpharetta, Mt. Olive, Rico, Charles E. Riley, James L. Riley, Stonewall and Underwood Hills.

She Feels Tug At Purse, Turns, Foils Pickpocket

A pickpocket suspect had a bad day Wednesday.

Detectives C. L. Adams and J. H. Landrum said they were told Mrs. Jordie Riley, 35, of Lithia Springs was waiting to cross a busy downtown intersection with a purse on her arm and a package in her hands.

Reaching around with the free hand, she found the purse open and a hand inside it. Detectives related. They said Mrs. Riley whirled and hit the intruder, a man, with the package she carried.

The suspect, Charlie Mack Humphries, 24, Negro, dashed out into the intersection at Spring Street and Carnegie Way, N.W. Patrolman Jack Bagwell, who was working traffic there, arrested him.

Beatnik Bandits Play It Cool

Two beatnik-talking bandits Wednesday played it cool, man, cool.

Police said the cool cats, one wearing a stocking mask, appeared first at the package store at 74 Elliott St. SW, and tied up the night manager, V. F. Ransom, 65, with an electric cord and gagged him with a handkerchief.

STRIPPED REGISTER

They stripped the cash register of $36.62 and moved over to a liquor store in the same building.

Manager Theodore W. Currier, 30, said the two first asked for whisky, then the taller man produced a small-caliber revolver and said:

"This gun is for real. Play it cool, man, cool. Take the money from the cash register and put it in a sack." Currier complied with the order.

HITS ALARM BUTTON

The two placed Currier in a back room and he promptly pressed a holdup alarm button.

Officers answered the call to the liquor store and placed a lookout for the Negro bandits unaware that Ransom was tied up in the package store next door.

Lonnie Davis, 40, of 444 Formwalt St., SW, walked into the package store to purchase a package of cigarettes, discovered Ransom and untied him.

Currier said the bandits got approximately $100 and two bottles of whisky from the liquor store.

League Asks Assembly to Save Schools

The Georgia League of Women Voters urged 1961 legislators Wednesday to enact open-schools laws in January and warned that a special session would cost $30,000 a day.

"Also," a form letter signed by League president Mrs. Edward T. Vinson said, "you will be able to exercise a control over the choice of alternatives that you may have after the courts order a child admitted."

"The people of Georgia know already that the courts have spoken and that you as their representatives must resolve the legal conflicts, or else that public schools will close, which they will not tolerate."

The letter also asserted that the University of Georgia would close unless the new appropriations act removes a fund cutoff provision in the present act.

Specifically, the League told legislators that it backed pupil placement and parent option legislation.

"... you have nothing to gain by delay," it said. "Act now, before events require a more hurried decision under conditions of greater tension."

Aldermen Defer Liquor Store Case

An effort to find a location for a liquor store forced to close because of urban renewal was deferred for another two weeks Wednesday night.

The aldermanic board's police committee agreed to give William A. (Bill) Sims, committee member and sixth ward alderman, time to survey the area in a move to find a place less objectionable to the neighborhood.

MOVE SOUGHT

Joseph Rinzler sought to move the establishment licensed at 486 Decatur Street, SE, to 922 DeKalb Avenue, SE, but a delegation appeared in opposition.

The hearing Wednesday was the fourth unsuccessful attempt to relocate the store, which Rinzler's attorney Sam Eplam said was a victim of the renewal program. Eplam also said it had been made a "football" by authorities for four months during which efforts have failed to find another site. He urged action at the earliest possible moment.

Previous efforts failed to relocate the store at 504 Decatur Street, SE; 612 Decatur Street, SE, and 1156 DeKalb Avenue, SE. SUSPENSION RECOMMENDED

The committee recommended suspension of Patrolman T. J. Crutchfield 41 days after finding him guilty of drinking off duty.

Druid Kiwanis Installs Officers

Tom T. Stubbs has been installed as president of the Druid Hill Kiwanis Club at ceremonies led by Kiwanis district governor Larry P. Martin this week.

Other officers inducted include Charles M. Howard, first vice president; Troy E. Daniel, second vice president; J. B. Thornton, treasurer; and Clarence Redfern, secretary.

His Rights Lost, Says Thompson

Will Meet Lawyer To Discuss Action

Fulton Tax Commissioner Standish Thompson said Wednesday he feels he was "deprived of due process" during an investigation by a Fulton grand jury which declined to confirm his appointment for another four-year term.

It was the second Fulton grand jury to turn down the appointment of Thompson, who has been with the tax office for nearly a decade, the past four years as commissioner.

RETAINS COUNSEL

"I have retained counsel to go into the matter of whether I have been deprived of my constitutional rights," Thompson said Wednesday, a day after the grand jury returned a special presentment declining to confirm his appointment by Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller.

"I feel my constitutional rights have been violated in that I was not allowed to know where charges against me were coming from, was not allowed to cross-examine my accusers, and was not allowed to call witnesses of my own," Thompson said.

CITES DUE PROCESS

"I do not believe the Legislature would pass a law that it knew would be a booby trap such as this, causing a public servant to be pitched out capriciously after doing a good job without any charges being preferred or proved against him," he said.

Thompson said the grand jury did not tell him what charges were made against him and did not say who made them.

"I feel that I have been deprived of due process and thus I retained counsel to explore the legal aspect of what has been done to me," he said.

Col. Donald Spicer Dies; Raised the Flag in Japan

Col. Donald Spicer, USMC (ret.), former Atlantan who was first to raise the American flag in Japan after World War II, died Wednesday at a U.S. Naval hospital in California.

Col. Spicer, 66, lived for many years in Atlanta, taking an active part in business, religious and civic life. At his death he was a resident of Coronado, Calif.

Col. Spicer attended the U.S. Naval Academy before enlisting in the Marines as a private. In 1917 he was commissioned as a second lieutenant and served during World War I in that capacity. Between the end of World War I and the beginning of World War II, Col. Spicer served two tours of duty in Haiti and one in Nicaragua.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Eleanor W. Sullivan; a daughter, Mrs. Richard Cross, San Diego, Calif., and three sons, Dr. Donald Spicer, USN, and Raymond and Rolf Spicer, both officers in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Funeral services will be held Thursday in Coronado, with burial in Fort Rosecrans National Cemetery.

Col. Spicer was a member of the Cathedral of St. Philip here, where he was a member of the vestry. He also belonged to the Northside Kiwanis Club, American Legion Post No. 134, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association and the Marine Corps League.

His decorations include the Commendation Ribbon for his activities in the prison camp, the Nicaraguan Presidential medal of Merit, and the World War I and World War II Victory Medals.

After a period of hospitalization to recover his health, Col. Spicer and his family moved to Atlanta where he directed recruiting for the Marine Corps in the Southeast. In June of 1949 he retired from service.

In 1950 he campaigned unsuccessfully for the Fulton County Commission seat of R. L. "Shorty" Doyal, and in 1951 ran for city councilman from the eighth ward.

He became director of the Atlanta Regional Blood Center for the American Red Cross after his retirement.

Detective J. W. Elliott said he and officers R. E. Martin, H. S. Wayne and L. C. Hay took Ellison into custody at the home address and seized lottery paraphernalia.

Three members of one family were arrested Wednesday on lottery charges, officers of the Metropolitan Lottery Squad said.

They were Joe Calloway, 44, his wife, Ruby Calloway, 34, and Mrs. Calloway's son by a previous marriage, Jerry Lee Ellison, 19, all of 240 Hemphill School Road, Southwest.

Ports Seek Millions To Expand

Will Ask Assembly For 8-Year Fund

SAVANNAH—The Georgia Ports Authority is expected to ask the General Assembly for a multi-million dollar appropriation to cover an eight-year program of expansion.

Thomas M. Johnson, of Savannah, a director of the authority, said a series of meetings have been held "to work up an eight-year budget, and an effort will be made to get appropriations to cover that period of time."

Johnson declined to say how much the Ports Authority would ask for, but the sum is expected to run into several million dollars.

The director discussed the proposed eight-year budget Wednesday after the authority released a glowing year-end report that showed Georgia ports leading the Southeast in commerce with foreign nations.

The report said:

"For the first time in the history of the operation, tonnage at our facilities in Savannah passed the million-ton mark, surpassing our closest competitor (Charleston, S.C.) by approximately 500,000 tons.

"Georgia showed a gain of 34 per cent (in port trade) while the entire nation showed a gain of only 10 per cent."

In a resume of the report, director Johnson said, "The year 1961 looks even more promising."

He praised Gov. Vandiver, the Legislature and news media for their help in promoting the state port facilities at Savannah, Brunswick and Bainbridge.

In another move to help Georgia's port progress, J. D. Holt, executive secretary of the authority, said serious thought has been given to opening up a European office to gain new trade for Georgia.

Holt said one "possible representative" already has been interviewed. He identified the prospective agent as a Dane but did not reveal his name.

The year-end report also told of progress being made on Georgia's inland port facilities.

DeKalb Lets Contract for New School

The DeKalb County School Board Wednesday let a contract of $416,000 for construction of the Hawthorne Elementary School which will have 16 classrooms.

The J. J. Black Construction Co., of 575 Plum St., N.W., will build the school at a Hawthorne Road site off Briarcliff Road in the Briarwood section of DeKalb. Architects are Edwards and Portman.

In other business, James R. Almand, who recently won election to the DeKalb County Commission, resigned from the school board. Almand, commission chairman-elect Charles Emmerich and others will be sworn in at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the DeKalb Courthouse.

Trade School Talk Called by Purcell

State School Supt. Claude Purcell has called a meeting of Atlanta-area school superintendents next Wednesday to decide how many vocational trade schools will be located in this area.

The city systems of Atlanta, Decatur and Marietta, and the county systems of Henry, Clayton, Douglas, Cobb, DeKalb, Fulton and Gwinnett will be represented.

Dr. Purcell said the superintendents will discuss "how many trade schools we need in this metropolitan area, where they should be built, some of the curriculum which will be offered in some of the schools and how the schools can be financed."

CAN ISSUE BONDS

Under a constitutional amendment, local school systems are authorized to issue bonds on up to 10 per cent of their tax digests to build trade schools.

The school department may deal directly with the board that would operate such schools, rather than having to disburse funds through county or city school boards.

Dr. Purcell said the state wants to know "who is willing to put money into the schools and how much." The state shares 50-50 in the cost of building of the schools and pays the salary of teachers, he explained.

DeKalb already has proposed to put up $750,000 and Atlanta and Fulton County have agreed to share in the cost of a school.

The schools to be built in this area will be among 20 to be built under an allocation of $9 million made available by the Legislature and Gov. Vandiver. This money is dispensed at a rate of $700,000 a year through the State School Building Authority.

Dr. Purcell said financing commitments already have been made for trade school centers in Albany, Columbus, Augusta and Rome.

CENTERS OKAYED

The school board has approved as centers: Atlanta, Athens, Douglas, Marietta, Macon, Sandersville, Savannah, Swainsboro, Moultrie, Thomasville, Valdosta, Waycross and Walker County.

The board has received applications from LaGrange, Decatur, Statesboro and Brunswick.

Steve McQueen A Father Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The wife of actor Steve McQueen Wednesday gave birth to an 8-pound 5-ounce son, their second child.

McQueen and his wife Neile, a former dancer, have a daughter, Terry, 1½.

Harrison Turns In 3 Fees, Will Resign

2 New Complaints Involve Member of Barbers Board

By JACK NELSON

A State Barbers Board member belatedly turned in fees in three more cases Wednesday and indicated he will comply with Gov. Vandiver's demand that he resign from the board.

Vandiver called for S. T. Harrison's resignation Tuesday after The Atlanta Constitution investigated complaints that Harrison had failed to remit properly fees he had collected from barbers and beauticians.

C. L. Clifton, joint secretary of the Examining Boards Division, Department of State, said Harrison told him he was "willing to do anything that would be the best for everybody concerned."

TO RESIGN TODAY

Clifton quoted Harrison as saying he would resign officially at a meeting with Vandiver at 10:30 a.m. Thursday. The governor appointed Harrison to a two-year term on the State Board of Barber and Beautician Examiners on Feb. 19, 1959.

Vandiver said he knew nothing of the Harrison case until The Constitution began looking into it Tuesday afternoon. The governor immediately conferred with Clifton and, after being told that Harrison had failed to remit fees properly, called for his resignation on grounds his conduct was "incompatible with that required of any public official."

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES

Vandiver also ordered an investigation by the State Law Department's criminal division. A spokesman for the division said the probe began late Tuesday afternoon and is continuing.

A Thomaston barber, Eddie Y. Webb, brought the Harrison case to The Constitution's attention Tuesday. He showed a reporter receipts from Harrison dated March 24, 1960, for $3 licenses for him and his son, Eddie D. Webb, and for a $20 examination fee for his nephew, Raphael A. Brumbelee. The barber said the licenses had not been received and Brumbelee had never been called for the examination.

Clifton said Harrison turned over

Still Opposes Tax Boost, C of C Says

Georgia businessmen, despite a forecast of increased business activity in 1961, are in no mood for a state tax increase, the president of the State Chamber of Commerce declared Wednesday.

John W. Dent of Cartersville made the comment as the chamber released a business survey which forecast a gain of 5.47 per cent in business volume next year.

GAINS 6.43 PCT.

The survey, based on replies from 400 leading firms, showed a gain this year of 6.43 per cent, compared to an estimated national increase of 4 per cent.

Dent, emphasizing that he was stating his personal impressions, declared at a news conference:

"I think the people are very much against new taxes."

Dent emphasized that he has no way of knowing whether Gov. Vandiver will ask for a tax increase. But he suggested that the governor might be influenced to approve an increase to provide for a teacher pay raise and expanded state services.

PROFITS DIP

Dent pointed out that the survey shows business profits after taxes dropped from 5.59 per cent of the total sales in 1959 to 5.31 per cent this year.

Dent said a check with leading industrial developers with respect to Georgia revealed definite optimism, provided there is no roadblock such as a major tax increase.

A lag in expansion decisions late in 1960, he said, was attributed to election year factors and uncertainties.

Giant Water Tank, Tower Approved by Joint Board

The Atlanta-Fulton County Joint Planning Board approved Wednesday an application for a special permit for construction of a two-million-gallon water tank and a supporting 85-foot tower at Mt. Vernon Highway, Dupree Drive and Old Powers Ferry Road.

Paul Weir, general manager of the Atlanta Water Works, said the project would require two years to complete and would serve 1,000 families. Costs, which will be shared by Atlanta and Fulton County, are $500,000 for the tank and tower and $1 million for four miles of mains between the new tank and the Northside booster station.

The board also approved a special permit for a bowling alley on the Alpharetta-Cumming Highway at Sun Valley Drive and approved the application of the Atlanta Baptist Association, Inc., for a church near Seven Hills Drive and Glenridge Drive in the Sandy Springs area.

It Took a Lot Of Biscuits

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—An Argentine biscuit maker paid nearly $50,000 Wednesday for a seven-passenger Cadillac sedan in the week-long auction of 600 new 1961 model cars which have been on display here. Proceeds of the car auctions went to the government which paid the manufacturers a cost-plus fee.

state examining boards, has known about the Harrison matter for some time, according to Clifton. He said he, Fortson and other members of the board discussed the matter last August with Harrison and impressed upon him the "seriousness" of it.

PROMISED TO CHECK

At that time, Clifton said, there had been about 10 complaints, and Harrison had turned in the fees after each complaint had been made. Clifton said Harrison promised to check his records and "straighten out" any other cases where he had failed to remit the fees.

The result was a list of 30 cases, totaling $122, which Harrison turned in along with the fees.

Still another complaint developed last month and Harrison turned in $20 which he had collected early in 1960.

Interest on Idle Funds To Get Further Study

The State Depository Board decided to defer for further study Wednesday the question of the interest the state's idle money should draw.

State Treasurer George B. Hamilton, executive officer of the board, said the body decided in a private meeting in Gov. Vandiver's office to "defer any action for further study of the whole situation."

Hamilton said he is going to make the study himself.

Only question under study by the five-member board, Hamilton said, is a formula he has proposed which would set the exact interest banks would pay. The formula would change quarterly with the money market.

This means that state money on deposit will continue to draw one per cent on deposits of 30 to 90 days, two per cent for 90 days to six months and three per cent for six months or longer.

Cataracts Should Be 'Ripe' for Removal

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me information on the progress and treatment of cataracts?

I have had them in both eyes for more than three years. Do you recommend an oculist or an optometrist?—G. A. D.

A cataract is a cloudiness which occurs in the lens of the eye itself. At first it is hardly noticeable. As the cloudiness becomes more dense, it interferes with the rays of light entering the eye and sight becomes dimmer.

When the cataract, or cloudiness, reaches a certain stage, known as becoming "ripe" or "mature," it can be removed by an eye surgeon. After that, light again can get through. With the addition of suitable eyeglasses, to make up for the removed lens, the patient again can see clearly.

It is neither necessary nor wise to remove cataracts before they are "ripe." It likewise is not a good idea to let them go too long. This isn't a sudden thing. There can be a variation of months, usually, between the time of being "ripe enough" and being "too ripe."

But there's nothing to be gained by delay, once the cataract is ready. Furthermore, cataracts may not develop at the same rate in each eye. The doctor tries to arrange the timing so one eye will be restored to usefulness before the other fails too much.

The term oculist is less often used these days. The preferred term is ophthalmologist—that is, a doctor who has had specialized training in care of the eyes.

An optometrist has quite another purpose. He is not a physician. He is concerned with the proper fitting of glasses so they correct blurring from near-sightedness, farsightedness or astigmatism.

It is true that conscientious optometrists are very helpful in urging people to go to ophthalmologists if they detect any suspicious signs of ailments in the eyes—cataracts, or any others. But the optometrists do not treat such disorders.

For cataracts, or for any eye ailments, go to an ophthalmologist. He is the only one qualified to use drugs or medications, do surgery, etc.

Naturally the ophthalmologist also will determine whether you need glasses and provide a prescription showing exactly what lenses you need, after which an optometrist can prepare the glasses for you.

WANT ADS PAY OFFU.S. Won't Appeal Defeat
In Apalachin Crime Rally

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice department said Wednesday it will not go to the Supreme Court with conspiracy charges against 20 men who attended the famous 1957 underworld conclave at Apalachin, N.Y.

The department obtained convictions against the 20 last January but the defendants won a reversal in the Second U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. The second circuit found the government had insufficient evidence.

The men were charged with conspiring to obstruct justice by giving a grand jury evasive testimony as to why the meeting took place.

It was attended by about 60 individuals, many with long criminal records. They were met by state police when the meeting broke up.

The second circuit's ruling is appealable to the Supreme Court. But Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin has decided against it, a department spokesman said.

The high court usually confines itself to points of law and does not examine evidence which has already been evaluated by two lower courts.

Harley Langdale Named
To Game, Fish Commission

Harley Langdale, 72, a leader in the gum turpentine industry, was appointed by Gov. Vandiver Wednesday to membership on the State Game and Fish Commission.

Appointment of the former Valdosta City Court judge was made to fill a post left vacant by the resignation of Alva Hopkins of Folkston.

The governor also suggested that Langdale would make an "excellent vice chairman" of the commission, replacing James C. Owen of Griffin. Griffin was nominated Tuesday to the State Board of Regents.

Vandiver has not yet named a replacement for Owen on the game and fish group.

Langdale, who was quail hunting when his appointment was announced, is chairman of the Valdosta Hospital Authority, president of the American Turpentine Farmers Association, which he founded, and is a Mason and a Shriner.

Ex-Queen Soraya Threatens To 'Tell All' in Her Memoirs

COLOGNE (WNS)—Ex-Queen Soraya is threatening to write her "tell all" memoirs if the Shah of Iran cuts off her $4,300 monthly allowance which she receives under terms of their 1959 divorce.

Soraya is said by family sources to be boiling mad. A half dozen international publishing houses are reported bidding for her inside story of life on the Peacock Throne.

Her family denounces the termination of her payments, effective Jan. 1, as a clear violation of the divorce agreement. The Shah also has notified Soraya's father, Khalil Esfandiari, that he is being retired as Iranian ambassador to West Germany, effective Jan. 1.

BREACH OF PROMISE

Ambassador Esfandiari, too, claims a breach of promise. He says that when he was in Tehran early last year the Shah assured him that he could stay on at his post in Germany until 1962.

Soraya's friends at the Iranian Embassy here say her agreements with the Shah stipulate that she is to receive the $4,300 monthly allowance until she remarries. Soraya agreed not to remarry until after the Shah had done so.

Keeping her pledge, Soraya has permitted half a dozen promising romances to run into the sand, according to the family sources. Prospective suitors included Prince Orsini of Italy and Harald, younger brother of the German industrialist.

THE SHAH CANCELED

However, once his male heir was born, the Shah lost no time in canceling the agreement, acting, in Soraya's view, under the influence of his sister, Ashraf, a bitter enemy of Soraya's.

The family sources hint that the circumstances of the birth of the Shah's son may be explored in Soraya's memoirs. It is known that Soraya and her father, through both official and private sources, received minute reports on all facets of the birth of Queen Farah Diba's child.

There have been reports published in Germany, apparently based on this material, that some 35 pregnant women were admitted to the same hospital where Queen Farah Diba was taken. Most of these women gave birth to children in the same time span as the Queen.

The family says Soraya has been subjected to "ceaselessly cruel ridicule and mockery" on the fertility issue. Prior to his five-year marriage to Soraya, the Shah was married for three years to the sister of deposed King Farouk of Egypt.

Iran is scraping the bottom of the barrel for foreign exchange, its $265,000,000 annual income from oil having been squandered in unregulated spending. Foreign currency reserves have been dropping about $50,000,000 yearly, and prices have risen 5 per cent in recent months after two years of unchecked inflation.

THE SHAH IS IRKED

Pro-Shah sources say he could not defend continued payments to Soraya while his country is undergoing austerity. Moreover, these sources reveal that the Shah is irked that Soraya permitted herself to be photographed, almost from the day of their divorce, with squads of admirers.

"From the Shah's point of view," added the pro-Shah source sourly, "it would have been almost better if Soraya had married and had it over. Certainly, all the photographs of Soraya and her boy friends and merely hungry admirers did nothing for the Shah's morale and prestige.

The bride's maternal grandmother is Mrs. D. B. McCoy.

The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Pye of West Wesley Road and of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Graham of Piedmont Terrace. Her maternal grandmother is Mrs. D. B. McCoy of Wildroad Road.

Americans Conform And Women Take Lead

MADISON, Wis. (WNS)—Despite the recent election differences, Americans are becoming more and more alike, according to two University of Wisconsin sociologists.

Women are leading the parade to what Prof. Norman B. Ryder and Donald Thomas label as conformity but not necessarily conformity.

Disclaiming any play on words, they explain that by such determined elimination of the striking individualities which used to prevail on a regional basis in the past, people actually are displaying a good deal of lack of conformity—with the past, that is!

The women, who always have displayed considerable adherence to uniform styles are natural leaders in what the two sociologists call the trend toward "an increasingly common way of life."

Here are the ways they see it. We are:

Getting married at a similar age (early);

Having children at a similar age (before 30);

Having the same size families (between two and four children);

Going to school a similar length of time (more and more young people stick through college);

Having similar sized homes (less than four rooms when we are young or old; more than seven rooms during the child rearing period);

Dying at a similar age, and of similar causes (cancer and heart disease);

In their nationwide studies, the two scholars found that fewer of us are remaining single; that childless couples are becoming a rarity, and, fortunately, that the death of a young person is now a most infrequent tragedy.

They found that the proportion of foreign-born Americans which not so long ago was one out of seven, now is down to one out of 16 and is declining rapidly to lower proportions.

They learned that the average size of Protestant and Roman Catholic families now is almost identical.

A "slow but sure" diminishing of the differences in American culture between white and Negro is another striking feature of the new "common way of life," as this team of sociologists sees it.

In the last 20 years the proportion of young people in school rose from 80 to 90 per cent for whites, and 70 to 90 per cent—the same level exactly—for Negroes.

Negroes used to live shorter lives than whites, but in the last 30 years this differential has been narrowed from 14 to seven years.

In answer to the question of how the nation with an increasing common way of life can avoid becoming also a country of conformists Professor Thomas said that it must be achieved in the schools and in the family circle.

Recreational activity in the home can, with steadily increasing leisure time for all the family's members, become more on the order of the family group in the play, "You Can't Take

It With You," with each member, old and young, indulging in his pet hobbies and projects.

The schools possess the rest of the answer, he said. Over the years, they will be forced by the age of specialization to offer the most comprehensive, individual-oriented educational program ever attempted by any nation.

The great challenge to the schools, as it is to the family, will be to offer a measure of security and common cultural affiliation to all individuals, without violating the essential uniqueness of each, he contends.

Until the schools can digest their overwhelming enrollment booms and cope with teacher shortages, the family, with the woman of the house taking the lead, will have to do the big job along this line, he forecasts.

Women who, apparently by their very natures, led the trend toward uniformity, now will have to display another side of their femininity and hold the line against blind conformity.

SEAMS TO ME

By Patricia Scott

Autumns' Reversible Skirts Will Return for '61 Spring

The reversible skirts of all types shown in the fall of 1960 will follow through the winter and spring of 1961. You will see non-pleated skirts of reversible fabric, non-pleated skirts of two fabrics and knife-pleated skirts of reversible fabric. The zipper, rather than the skirt, is the trick in making such skirts.

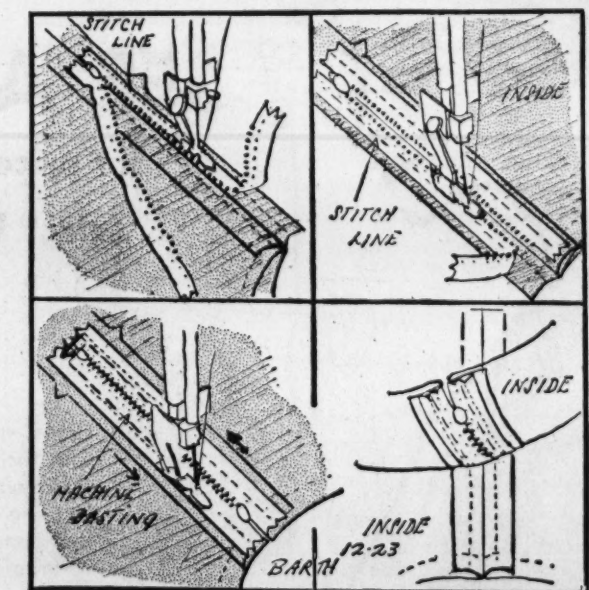

Applying a regulation skirt zipper in a reversible skirt varies, depending on which of the above types you use. Since I do not have the space in one column to give directions for all, I'll illustrate the most popular version—the reversible skirt of two separate fabrics that have been placed and sewn together so that either side may be worn as the outside.

The adjustable zipper foot machine attachment is very necessary because it allows for stitching on either side of the zipper. It should always be placed so that no part of the front rides on the metal portion of the zipper.

First follow the instructions on the zipper package for preparing the placket. The length of the placket opening should be equal to the length of the metal part of the zipper plus waistline seam allowance and 1/4 inch for waist band clearance. Baste on placket seam allowance to prevent stretching then baste placket closed along seam line. Press seam open.

2. Top right: Adjust zipper foot to left-hand side of needle. Place other side of opened zipper on other seam allowance with edge of teeth at seam line and pull-tab turned up. Begin stitching at turned up pull-tab. Sew through zipper tape and seam allowance only.

3. Bottom left: Close zipper. Spread garment flat. Start machine basting at waist edge, stitching through zipper tape, seam allowance and garment.

4. Bottom right: Match seams of both layers of skirt at the placket, with insides of skirts together. Using regular machine stitching, stitch along machine basting to complete placket. Remove all basting stitches. Press.

A booklet containing 15 ideas for gifts you can make is now available. These gift ideas have been selected from Patricia Scott's most popular columns. To receive a copy of FIFTEEN GIFTS YOU CAN MAKE, write to Miss Scott in care of The Atlanta Constitution, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents to cover printing and handling costs.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

Crow's Feet Cure

NEW YORK (UPI)—To remove a wrinkle in a resin-treated fabric first steam from the area to flatten and heat the material. Then apply vinegar with a medicine dropper to the wrinkle while the cloth is still hot.

The fabric should be left to absorb the acid for a minute or two. Then run the iron over the area until the material is dry. The directions come from Gerda Petersen, extension clothing specialist at the University of Nebraska.

Battle Continued Against Pornography And State's Illiteracy

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A continuing battle against obscene literature and the eradication of illiteracy in the state will be two major phases of the concentrated efforts of Georgia clubwomen in 1961-62.

Guided by the theme, "Let us reason together with understanding and information," Mrs. Thomas O. Davis of Decatur, chairman of the education department, and her committee will focus attention on eight divisions of work within that area.

Third in a series.

"We believe that education is our greatest weapon for world peace and the safeguarding of our democracy," observed Mrs. Davis as she highlighted her unit's plan of work for the new year.

MUST INFORM OURSELVES

"We believe that if we are to survive in this space age we must inform ourselves about our greatest enemies—ignorance and misinformation," added Mrs. Lawrence Couch Jr., Toccoa, cochairman of the education department.

The club leaders added that to win "we must be willing to accept the challenges, be inspired by the opportunities and assume the responsibilities."

The fight against obscene literature, a continuing battle waged on a national level by clubwomen, will be planned by the communications division, headed by Mrs. James S. Tankersley of Ellijay. Skirmishes will be waged through plans and projects utilizing the services of television and radio, the press and special programs urging support of the campaign to stamp out obscene literature. This, however, is only one phase of the work designed by the communications division.

EDUCATION THROUGH COMMUNICATION

"We believe," explained Mrs. Tankersley, "that communications is a reflection of our American democracy and culture. We shall use all the means at our disposal to further the education of adults and children through communication. One phase of our efforts will be the encouragement of a higher caliber of motion pictures, particularly depicting American democracy and culture."

Mrs. Charles B. McGarity of Dallas heads the literacy division, which will strive for the eradication of illiteracy.

"Most of the ills of the world are caused by ignorance and philosophies of government contrary to our way of life," Mrs. McGarity said. "So we must encourage clubs to help educate people through special classes, in our own communities."

SPUR CITIZEN SUPPORT

Mrs. John G. Lewis, Hapeville, chairman of the library division, reports that her group will spur efforts to encourage citizen support of community libraries. Particular emphasis will be on keeping informed about legislation and appropriations which affect libraries, promoting local, regional and statewide library programs which will further "enrich the lives of all our people."

Future scholarship planning by the women's clubs of Georgia, with emphasis on the new teachers scholarship loan plan, will be stressed by the scholarship division during 1960-61. The division, headed by Mrs. Osborne Wynn of Macon, suggests local clubs plan programs and projects spotlighting the "acute teacher shortage." This, Mrs. Wynn said, is recognized as one of "our greatest education problems."

ENCOURAGE TEACHING

"We are calling on club members to work toward getting the information to Georgia students in their own communities, and to make available to them the ways and means of encouraging young people to pursue a career in the teaching field," she added.

The clubwomen are underscoring such encouragement with the teachers scholarship loan plan, and through participation in the Tallulah Falls scholarship program, whereby deserving graduates of the Federation-owned school are given a financial helping hand to further their education. This is a primary purpose of the Georgia group's penny art scholarship program.

NEW EMPHASIS ON INDIANS

There is new emphasis on Indian affairs within the Federation, with a study schedule formed to focus on the needs and basic problems of the American Indian, with particular devotion to the tribes that are natives of Georgia. This interesting phase of work, the Indian affairs division, is under the leadership of Mrs. Theodore Jackson of Winder, who is urging clubwomen to "learn about and appreciate the Indian."

"The practical purposes of this division," Mrs. Jackson pointed out, "is to work toward finding solutions to some of the problems of the Indians."

She said this will be carried forth, during the next two years, through study programs and field trips. It is hoped that every Federation member in Georgia will visit the Indian mounds and museums in the state, and schedule programs featuring arts, crafts and music of the Indians, to stimulate better understanding and appreciation of the "early Americans."

STUDY OF LANGUAGES

Continuing education and the Epsilon Sigma Omicron reading sorority will also merit attention from Georgia clubwomen during the next two years. This division, headed by Mrs. Lawrence Couch Jr., will carry out its aims with emphasis on studying languages, providing leadership training and group activity through workshops and forum programs.

"We'll also encourage every clubwoman in Georgia to join ESO for self-improvement," Mrs. Couch said.

NEWS SERVICE

The over-all program of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs is forcefully interpreted, in keeping with the organization's policy of better informed citizenry, through the news service and information division. Headed by Mrs. L. F. Schelver Jr. and Mrs. B. E. Burton of Atlanta, this unit channels news of the organization, from the local level through the national outlook, to the public via the press.

Working closely with newspapers, radio and TV stations throughout Georgia, Mrs. Schelver and Mrs. Burton endeavor to "get across to the club-women and to the public the aims and objectives of our departments and projects."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS DIVISION

One of the most significant phases of work of Georgia clubwomen is the public schools division, headed by Mrs. Baker Wyche of Elberton.

To assure constant growth in public education, the schools division has put into operation a four-point program that Federation members are urged to support through active participation. Mrs. Wyche lists them as follows:

1. Vote in all school board and other school elections—after studying the issue, or issues, at stake.
2. Keep our clubs united in attitudes, insofar as possible, and present a united front to support local school officials.
3. Combat ignorance and encourage knowledge of your school curriculum and administration with information programs.
4. Study legislation concerning our public school system and the Sibley report.

HOLIDAY GLAMOUR

Mirror, Mirror, Who Glitters Most of All? You! With This Makeup Madness for Parties

By JEAN ROONEY

Go glittery for New Year's Eve. Why not?

It's fine to look like the girl-next-door 350 days a year, but holidays are an excuse to go glamorous.

It's not expensive . . . not difficult . . . requires just a quickie visit to a cosmetic counter to add Marilyn Monroe touches to your personal holiday decor.

For instance:

1. False eyelashes
2. Colored eye makeup.
3. Beauty spots.
4. Gold-flecked lipstick.
5. Glittery hair-do.
6. Sparkling nails.

Try one or all and watch your party morale soar in 1961.

FALSE EYELASHES are a great starter. And see how quickly you learn to flutter them. The new ones are real hair and so light you forget you're wearing them.

They stick to the lid neatly with special glue (all in one, not lash by lash), can be trimmed if you insist. (Cost is under $5 a pair.)

THE GLITTER LOOK is a natural for the holidays and comes out of a bottle . . . of gold flecks. This cosmetic gold dust is now bottled and ready to sprinkle on top of eye makeup, lipstick and in your hair.

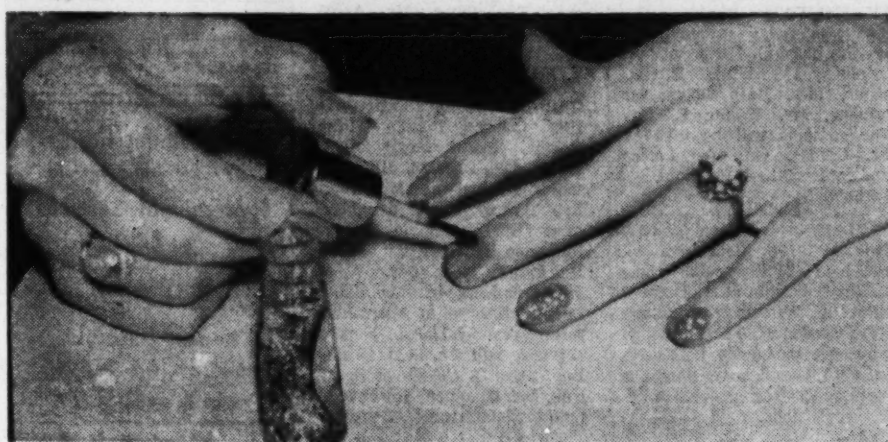

It adheres to makeup or hair spray (brushes out later) and catches the sparkle of party lights. Sprinkle a cluster high on your cheekbone for a glitter spot.

COLORLED LASHES give your eyes a great lift whether the lashes are for real or fun. Tip them with mauve or turquoise or spruce green mascara.

LUMINOUS LIDS look newest this season with several shades of colored eye shadow. Match the color to your eyeliner near the eye then switch to another color near the brow, maybe gold or silver. And sprinkle gold or silver dust on top—in the corner, near the brow.

GOLD-FLECKED LIPSTICK, with gold flecks built in, adds to your golden aura. Or sprinkle the gold dust on top of your regular lip coloring. It'll come off on the egg nog cup, but that's part of the game.

BEAUTY SPOTS did things for Marie Antoinette and still work beauty tricks. They're a guaranteed conversation starter. You can buy a variety box with black velvet, jeweled ones and gold metallic ones, in heart,

SPANGLED NAILS COME EASY TOO
With Glitter Built Into Nail Lacquer

crescent and other shapes. Stick one (with its own glue) at the corner of your eyes or just above the lips and wait for the magic reaction.

SHIMMERY FOUNDATION lotions and creams come with silvery or gold undertones. You can buy one brand in pale blue or green.

SPANGLED NAILS deck your fingertips with a coat of new Gold Dust nail lacquer. Glittery silver, gold of multi-color flecks are contained in a sealer coat of polish that you simply brush over your regular lacquer.

GLITTER HAIR-DO comes easy with the same gold flakes. Spray your hair first. Then sprinkle them in a pattern to follow a wave or cover your bangs.

Or you might spray on silver or gold lacquer in streaks or tips. You can even do it in bright pink or soft blue.

Whether you go pink-headed or just a little light-headed for New Year's Eve, let yourself go on new makeup and have fun.

For shopping information, call Jackson 2-5050 or send a self-addressed postcard to The Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

Atlanta Career Girl

You're Resolved To Save Money? Then Mark This Sure-Fire Way

by JUNE WILSON

If you make annual decisions at the start of each new year to do better, save your money and quit smoking, you're a fine, stalwart girl. Also, you're an incurable optimist. If you manage to keep your resolutions, bully for you!

Whatever you do about setting down the ways by which you intend to improve yourself and your habits is your affair. If you are a single woman, though, by birth, divorce or widowhood, there is one resolution you need worse than that bit about starting a savings account. Move this up to the top of the list:

RESOLVED: TO GET AN ATTORNEY

There are a lot of dishonest people out to take advantage of anybody. There are many more who are honest only because they are afraid of being caught outside the law.

Of the two categories, the second group is the one which preys most upon the single, working woman. These are the slob who have to watch.

A case in point is that of a widow with young children who sold her home only to discover months later that her agent had failed to run a clear title which somebody paid for, and she was billed for a large, outstanding mortgage.

Upon telephoning the real estate agent who handled the sale for her and, incidentally, received the commission, she was shocked by the abusive language with which he answered her inquiries but far more shocked when he said, "Mrs. Jones, you should have had YOUR attorney present at the closing."

You even need a lawyer to check on those who, ostensibly, are working FOR you!

Never buy anything for cash or by installments from an outfit with which you are unfamiliar. Check it through the credit bureau, the better business bureau or have your lawyer run it through R and I. If you buy in installments, don't sign anything until your personal Perry Mason checks the contract. It is not always in the fine print where the gyp is; sometimes it's in the BIG print.

A word about the type of attorney you decide upon. Ask around, consult your boss. Beware of three basic types: the ambulance chaser, the razzle-dazzler, any attorney with political ambitions. Find one who is interested first in the law, second in you as a human being. Make a friend of one such as this, treat him well and cherish him. There is nothing so worthless or expensive as a "jack-leg" lawyer—unless it's an incompetent dentist.

The law is real, it has teeth, it is for your protection. But unless you break it or invoke it, it is inert. To use it for even your own protection you need a factual-minded man who makes the law his business—his only business.

Quit smoking, save your money, make new friends. But this above all . . . be deadly certain that the first of your new friends is an attorney.

Memphis Buying Bus System

MEMPHIS (AP)—Memphis Transit Company stockholders Wednesday agreed to sell their bus system to the City of Memphis for $2,333,546. The action spelled an early end to 64 years of private operation of the city transit system. The sale is still subject to formal approval of the city commission but city officials and company representatives reached a tentative agreement Dec. 14.

The Insurmountable Odds

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—When fate shuffles the deck you never know how the cards will fall, but few coaches ever caught a hotter hand than personable Ray Graves.

Last Jan. 2, Arkansas had dealt Georgia Tech a stinging 14-7 defeat in the 15th annual Gator Bowl game. Presentations had been made at the banquet party in the George Washington Hotel and now the band was playing and celebrators were living it up.

Outlar

At a table in the rear of the room Graves made no attempt to conceal his gloom. Ordinarily a man capable of masking emotions, his face mirrored the fact that this was one of the bitterest setbacks of his football life.

At the time he was a candidate for the Florida job, but the issue was still in doubt. After a dozen seasons as Bobby Dodd's top lieutenant, Graves was ready to make his move. Sitting at the table, you felt that Graves had coached his last game at Tech. With the possible exception of Dodd, there wasn't a bluer man in Jacksonville.

Not even Lloyds of London or Las Vegas would have listed odds against Graves returning to the Gator Bowl in less than 12 months and bringing his own team with him.

At the time Graves appeared to have no better than an even shot at the Florida job, Graves, of course, landed the post, but there was minimum cheering among Gator boosters. They did not want another defensive-minded man in the head chair from which they had unseated able Bob Woodruff.

—A Triumphant Return to the Gator Bowl

Graves promised to field an offensive-minded outfit which would go for broke. Fortunately, he had a daring young man named Larry Libertore and a gung ho band of Gators who enabled him to keep his promise. Florida scored two or more touchdowns against seven opponents.

The Cinderella Florida story is familiar to all. The galloping Gators were in the running for the SEC title all the way and culminated an 8-2 campaign by whaling bitter enemy Miami, 18-0.

Now Ray Graves is returning to the Gator Bowl as SEC Coach of the Year, and listening to jubilant Floridians here you are convinced that he is the most popular man in the state. The bright setting on the eve of the battle with Baylor is quite a contrast to the gloomy evening after the last Gator Bowl bout. And no doubt Ray Graves will think about the lonesome table at the George Washington Hotel when he checks in here Thursday with his Florida team.

Fate changed all the cards for him in one shuffle.

The rise to prominence of the man who will sit on the rival bench across the field from Graves Saturday afternoon is even more fantastic. Only four years ago John Dixon Bridgers was the football and track coach at Johns Hopkins, a distant sidetrack from the main line of big time college football.

—Economics Prof Preferred Football

The wheel of fortune often spins in strange directions, and Bridgers is a shining example. A native of Birmingham, Bridgers was an undistinguished guard at Auburn before he joined the service in 1942.

He returned to Auburn as an economics instructor after recording highest four-year average in business administration. He remained on the football fringe by coaching the team, and there was no indication that he would ever crash the profession as a head coach.

But football was John Bridgers' business. He had to love the sport to serve five years as the line coach at Sewanee, two years as an Army coach during the Korean conflict and three years as head coach at Johns Hopkins.

Hard work and ability finally paid off for Bridgers when the Baltimore Colts, impressed by his Hopkins teams, hired Bridgers as line coach. That was the springboard to Baylor where, like Graves at Florida, Bridgers swiftly proved he was the man for the job.

In two years Bridgers has lifted Baylor off the Southwest carpet and into the Gator Bowl. With only eight seniors on the roster, the Bears were supposed to be cubs this year, but they arrived ahead of schedule and rode to a bowl bid via an 8-2 record. Southwest champion Arkansas and Sugar Bowl-bound Rice are numbered among victims.

The odds against Ray Graves and John Bridgers becoming rival coaches in the 1960 Gator Bowl game were insurmountable. But you never know where the cards will fall when fate shuffles the deck.

NFL Draft Ends, Player War Begins

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National Football League teams Wednesday completed a college player draft of 280 players from 130 schools and immediately set out to overcome a competitive handicap of some six weeks in signing the stars.

Although Commissioner Pete Rozelle refused to complain or say anything officially, it was obvious that the older league suffered somewhat from its attempt to cooperate with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Rozelle, in order to oblige the NCAA, scheduled the NFL draft for the end of December. He went along with the college groups request not to draft or postpone to sign collegians in post season games. The infant American Football League, however, told the NCAA to go kick its football and drafted in split sessions held late in November and early December.

As a result, AFL teams have been beating the bushes, signing players. Their activities had a definite effect on the NFL draft. Coaches and general managers took twice as long—some 20 hours over a two-day period—to complete their task. They drafted only after long distance telephone calls of assurance that players selected had not been signed by the rival AFL, and were interested in playing in the NFL.

Some teams took as long as two and a half hours before making a selection. The others sat and waited while some player was routed out and asked, "Hey fellow, are you signed, and if not will you play with us?"

Rozelle would not say what he intends to do next year, but sentiment among the teams was to hold an early draft. The NFL may not think too much of the quality of AFL football, but it respects the year-old league's wide open checkbooks.

The older league apparently realizes you can't give the opposition a six-week lead in player signing competition, no more than one team can give another a point handicap on the playing field.

The San Francisco 49ers led the draft parade with 26 selections in the 20 rounds as a result of choices acquired from other clubs in previous trades. St. Louis and Baltimore each picked

From Press Dispatches

Baylor coach John Bridgers put his squad through two long practice sessions behind closed gates at Jacksonville Wednesday in preparation for the Bears Gator Bowl game with Florida Saturday.

Meanwhile at Gainesville the Gators went through their last home drill and prepared to move into Jacksonville Thursday.

Bridgers said his players "looked good, particularly on defensive adjustments, and quarterbacks Ronnie Stanley and Bobby Ply were throwing well."

Stanley started every regular season game and led the Southwest Conference in passing and total offense, but Ply, who completed 17 of 24 passes in the Bears' last three games, will start against Florida.

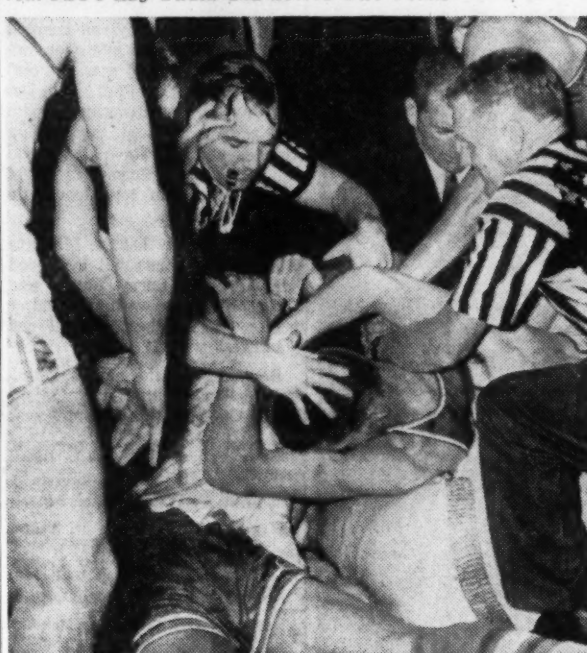

Gator coach Ray Graves said that one of Florida's big problems preparing for the game "is that we have no one who can imitate Ronnie Bull and Ronnie Goodwin, Baylor's halfbacks. We don't have anyone who can run that fast."

He also said quarterback Larry Libertore, who twisted an ankle in practice last week, should be at full speed by Friday.

SUGAR—The biggest difference between Rice and Ole Miss is quarterback Jake Gibbs, according to Arkansas defensive coach Jim MacKenzie, the only man to set defenses for both teams during the season. "With Gibbs, I'd have to give Ole Miss an edge," MacKenzie says, "but it'll be mighty close."

COTTON—The fellow giving Arkansas head coach Frank Broyles more concern than anyone else is Duke's swing end Tee Moorman, who caught 46 passes for 431 yards during the season. According to Broyles, if you don't put two men on Moorman he'll murder you, and if you do Duke will beat you on the ground.

BUTTS AND GRIFFITH TALK IN MONTGOMERY

There was still another angle to the vacant Georgia head football coaching job Wednesday.

The Constitution learned that chief recruiter and freshman coach Johnny Griffith spent the entire afternoon conferring with athletic director Wally Butts at Montgomery, Ala., where Butts is coaching in the Blue-Gray game.

Griffith is considered one of the two prime candidates for the job at this time. The other is backfield coach Charley Trippi. Some insiders give the edge to Griffith, others favor Trippi.

Several members of the athletic board, which holds a meeting next Friday, are on record favoring tagging a member of the current staff as successor to Butts, who resigned last week after 22 years as head coach.

It has also been said, authoritatively, that the new coach would be a Georgia graduate.

The issue has not been decided, by any means, and interviews will continue at Athens and other points.—THOMY

Bulldogs Tip Florida State

Johnsons Spark 62-56 Win; Georgia Meets Tech Tonight

By JESSE OUTLAR

Constitution Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE—Georgia's Bulldogs parlayed the clutch shooting of Allan and John Johnson with a tight defense to gun down Florida State, 62-56, in the opening round of the Gator Bowl basketball tournament Wednesday night.

Florida trounced Jacksonville University, 82-68, in the first game before a record local audience of 5,539 in the new coliseum.

The Bulldogs, seeking an unprecedented fourth straight Gator crown, battle Georgia Tech Thursday night at 9:30. Florida dribbles against Navy at 7:30. The Engineers and Middles drew byes Wednesday.

John Johnson poured in 16 points and claimed 18 rebounds to spark the revived Bulldogs who had dropped four of five games this season. Pint-sized Allan Johnson clicked for 13 points and rendered a smooth floor performance.

The issue was very much in doubt right down to the wire. Two field goals by Seminole sharpshooter Dave Fedor narrowed the gap to 56-58 in the final forty seconds. A foul toss by Chuck Adamek increased Georgia's margin to three points 18 seconds before the final gun. Frank Clark then added a charity shot and Pat Casey sank two more free throws to promote the final margin.

After assuming a 30-24 half-time edge the Bulldogs stalled shortly after intermission and FSU pulled ahead 38-36 on free throws by Fedor Rufus Ashworth.

Johnson then promoted one of four second-half ties with a tip-in. They traded the lead again before Casey hit from field to put Georgia on the tall end of the see-saw 48-46. The Bulldogs never surrendered the lead as the Johnson boys combined for nine straight points.

Fedor, who took scoring honors with 20 points, kept Seminole hopes alive with four pressure-packed field goals in the waning minutes.

With the Johnsons setting the pattern, Georgia sank 25 of 61 shots from the floor for a 41 per cent accuracy mark. Florida State clicked on only 23 of 71 shots for a cool 32.4 mark.

In contrast to the opening battle royal which ended in a fist swinging melee, Georgia and FSU concentrated on basketball.

Florida State, which conquered Kentucky earlier in the season, couldn't work its shuffle past the tight Bulldog defense.

Jubilant Coach Red Lawson labeled it Georgia's finest defensive showing of the campaign. The Johnsons and defense were the difference.

Thus, the Bulldogs earned a rematch with Georgia Tech in Thursday night's second round. The Engineers, stinging from four straight setbacks, routed Georgia by 18 points in an early season contest in Atlanta.

Georgia broke on top with the Johnson boys, Allan and John, and Phil Simpson setting the pace, and assumed a 14-9 advantage.

Dale Ricketts and Dave Fedor then shot FSU back into contention, and the Seminoles claimed the lead for the first time 21-20 on Ray Swain's field

Villa Rica High School, tying a five-point defensive halter in the second half on Druid Hills' defending AAA girls champions, rolled effortlessly to a thundering 53-16 upset, featuring an eight-game card in the Atlanta Jaycee Invitational basketball tournament Wednesday.

The stunner set up a Thursday 8 p.m. semifinal match with R. L. Caswell's unbeaten (14-0) West Haralson girls, who tumbled Marietta, 53-44, on a 37-point show by Sandra Pierce.

Northside, Marist, North Fulton and Westminster boys, to no one's surprise, reached the semifinal round. Northside pounded Pickens County, 74-22, Marist outscored West Fulton, 76-70, North Fulton outlasted Forsyth County in a wild 23-16 affair, and Westminster put down O'Keefe's most brilliant game, 48-42.

West Fulton and Forsyth County's girls survived the first round's toughest games, and are paired in the second semifinals game. Herbert Cook's girls tipped R. E. Lee Institute, 32-31, on 21 and 11 point outings by Kay Lewis and Judy Kiker while D. B. Carroll's Forsyth County girls nudged Grady, 43-40, in an overtime on a three-point extra by Elaine Bagley and Shirley Whitt's earlier 25-point shooting.

Caswell's West Haralson people led at every quarter pole, 20-8, 30-19, and 42-32. Gwen Wells and Sandra Barmore fired 22 and 17 points for Miriam Hipsher's losers. Jane Mize and Patsy Cheatham aided Pierce with eight points apiece.

Cleve Clark's Northsiders zipped late, surging from a 12-10 first quarter advantage to 35-14 at the half and 56-16 after three quarters. John Holman, Ben Barron, Herndon Murray, and Sonny Morrison hit 19, 10, 9 and 9 points for Northside; Joe Turner scored 11 for Pickens County.

Lila Brasher and Carolyn Williams tossed in 27 and 16 points for Mrs. Anne Anders' Villa Ricans; Judy Conner, Jamie Morris and Lois Hammond turned in crisp guarding.

McKee Nunnally and Bob Blackwood scored 13 and 12 points as Emmett Wright's Wildcats clawed from an early deficit. It was 14-9, O'Keefe after a quarter, but Westminster got a 24-20 lead at the half and was in 35-32 control after three quarters.

Buddy Blankenship hit 18 for O'Keefe.

Connie Staten, who scored a game-high of 29 points, clicked on a fielder just at the buzzer to send the Grady-Forsyth duel into overtime. Then Bagley finished it with her fielder and free throw in the extra two minutes.

Little Eddie Dunn scored seven points to lead North Fulton's baffling win over injury-hurt Forsyth County (19-point guard Sammy Carroll was out with a firecracker-wrecked shooting hand). John Cash and Jon Kilgore had three

TARKENTON, STRANGE CO-CAPTAIN SOUTH

By AL THOMY

Georgia quarterback Francis Tarkenton was voted co-captain of the South team Wednesday night as the Rebels stepped up preparations for their tussle with the Yankees in Saturday's Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

He will share the leadership post with linebacker Bo Strange of LSU.

FRANCIS TARKENTON
A Rebel Leader

Georgia thus comprised three-fourths of the starting backfield. Only intruder was fullback Ronnie Hartline, an Oklahoma product.

"Hartline is a mighty tough runner," said Brown via telephone from Montgomery. "He runs hard and shows a lot of class."

Brown said everyone was having a fine time in Montgomery town.

"Practice has been real good," he enthused. "We've knocked only one time yesterday—but the group is working together amazingly well."

"The way I hear it, the North is a lot bigger than we are, but we have a little more speed. Don't let anyone tell you the North isn't tough. They've got a real hard-nosed team."

Brown himself received a compliment from teammate Tarkenton.

"Fred and Walden have run as good as any back we've got on the squad," said Francis. "I believe they might breakaway for some good gains Saturday."

Word is that the South will have a balanced running-passing attack for the game.

The LSU contingent of five players has impressed the squad, especially the Georgia boys.

"Guys like Ed McCree, Bo Strange, Donnie Day and the others are real high-type boys," said Brown. "It's a pleasure to be on the same team with them."

It is Brown's opinion that the South's lack of heft will not hamper the Rebels too much.

"We've got boys like Bobby Boylston (Druid Hills graduate) of Alabama at tackle," he said. "Bobby weighs only 192 pounds but he moves like a cat. Do I think he's too small? Well, I think anyone who comes out of Alabama is ready to play this type of football."

Norman Sneed, the sling-shot arm from Wake Forest, will spell Tarkenton on offense, and South head coach Paul Dietzel already knows what he can do. LSU head Wake, 16-0, during the regular season, but Dietzel called Sneed "one of the best college passers I've seen and the best this year."

That was after he watched Jake Gibbs of Ole Miss, too.

Wildcats Edge Headland
In Tri-City Meet, 51-44

By POOCHIE HARTSFIELD

Sylvan, Marietta, Newnan and Russell all emerged victorious in Wednesday night play in the Tri-City Invitational tourney.

But the most exciting game was saved till last when Russell and Headland waged a war of nerves right up until the final moments, Russell coming out on top, 51-44.

Headland jumped off to a 6-point lead in the opening moments and it was not until the end of the period that Russell was able to grab the lead. The largest margin either team managed during the night was seven points.

In other games Sylvan romped to a one-sided 72-28 win over out-manned George and Marietta outlasted Southwest, 52-47. Lee DeFore paced the Sylvan attack with 26 points followed by Virlyn Gaynes with 13. Steve Davis and W. B. Norton turned in eight points apiece to top George in point production.

Benny Beverly led the Marietta win with 18 points but had good support from Larry Bagby and Larry Stephens with 12 and 9 points each. Albert Stovall led Southwest with 17 points.

Rounding out the night's activity, Newnan breezed by College Park 49-27. In this game it was

From Press Dispatches

Questions as to whether the Italian Davis Cup team gave all-out effort arose Wednesday after Australia had taken a 4-1 victory in the challenge round for the international tennis trophy.

The matches ended with Rod Laver cutting down towering Orlando Sirola in straight sets 9-7, 6-2, 6-3, and Nicola Pietrangeli gaining the lone Italian victory over limping Neale Fraser 11-9, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2.

Vannie Canepile, the Italians' captain, defended the attitude of his players, however, saying their seemingly casual approach to the Australians was only temperamental makeup.

FOOTBALL—Cornell University has selected 33-year-old Tom Harp, backfield coach at Army for the last five years, to succeed George K. (Lefty) James, who was fired at the end of the season. Florida's Ray Graves is among eight nominees for the 26th annual American Football Coaches Association major college Coach of the Year award. The others are Murray Warmath, Minnesota; Jim Owens, Washington; Jordan Oliver, Yale; Bill Hess, Ohio; Bill Murray, Duke; Bump Elliott, Michigan; and Frank Broyles, Arkansas. Among the nominees for the small college awards, being inaugurated this year, are Clarence Stasavich, Lehigh; Rhyne, and Jack Gathier, Florida A&M. UCLA's Bill Kilmer has been named winner of the Pop Warner award as the most valuable senior football player on the Pacific Coast. . . . John White, 220-pound rookie end from Texas Southern, returned to the active roster as the Houston Oilers' prep for Sunday's AFL championship game with Los Angeles. . . . John McDonough of Stanford has been named referee for the AFL title game.

BASKETBALL—North Carolina, N.C. State, Wake Forest and Duke are favored over Maryland, Villanova, Marquette and Wyoming, respectively, as the Dixie Classic opens Thursday. Duke (7-0) is the tournament favorite. . . . Tennessee State is rated No. 1 in UPI's small college ratings. Mississippi Southern is No. 3, Kentucky Wesleyan No. 9. . . . Police have assigned additional men to watch for evidence of gambling at the Big Eight Conference basketball tournament.

Sandy Springs, Roswell Win

Roswell and Sandy Springs took first-round wins in the North Fulton Invitational basketball tournament Wednesday at the Milton High gym.

Sandy Springs, the pre-tournament favorite, nudged Hiram, 47-45, behind Bruce Douglas' 18 points. Hiram was led by J. W. Barnfield with 18, and Neil Coker with 14.

Roswell will meet Milton at 8 p.m. Thursday, and the winner of this game faces Sandy Springs in the finals Friday.

BOXING—Closed circuit TV for the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson title fight at Miami Beach March 13 will be shown in Madison Square Garden and at Roosevelt and Yonkers Raceways, according to William D. Fugazy. . . . Terry Downes, 24-year old British middleweight champion, arrived in New York to prepare for his Jan. 14 NBA title go with Paul Pender in Boston.

Temper flared throughout the contest and a minute from the end fists started flying when JU's Cone and Florida's Cliff Luyk set off a free-for-all with a skirmish under the Dolphin goal. Police restored order and no one was hurt, for the two teams were no more accurate landing punches than they had been shooting goals.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Jumping Jack Waters gunned the Mississippi Rebels past a second-half Georgetown comeback here Wednesday for a 78-73 victory over the Hoyas.

It was the opening first rounder of the 7th annual Gulf States South classic.

The all-Southeastern Conference forward and his Mississippi mates appeared to have the ball game well in hand as they rolled up a 39-27 halftime lead over the Washington, D.C., team. But the Hoyas trimmed the difference to one point at 63-62 with six minutes to play.

Waters finished up with 32 points.

22 and Cleveland, Green Bay and Los Angeles 21 each. Pittsburgh, which usually deals away most of its selections for veteran players, was low on the totem pole with only 14 choices.

Among the colleges, the Pitt Panthers apparently were well scouted as the pros took eight players from the eastern power. Seven each were drawn from Illinois, Northwestern, Mississippi and Syracuse.

Rose Bowl bound Washington, Baylor and Ohio State were tapped for six each. As usual, the pros dipped into comparatively unknown institutions for the proverbial sleepers, picking from such places as Grambling (La.), Philander Smith (Ark.), Lake Forest (Ill.), Wagner (N.Y.), McNeese State and Mount San Antonio (Calif.).

Auburn tackle Ken Rice was the St. Louis Cardinals first draft choice. Ed Dyas was picked by Baltimore in the fifth round, and Wayne Frazier by Chicago in the 16th.

Fedor boosted the margin to three with a layup, but Georgia staged a scoring spurt in the waning minutes and led 30-24 at intermission. Allan Johnson and John Johnson sacked field goals, Phil Simpson hit twice from field and Allan Johnson connected again as the Bulldogs reaped eight straight points.

In the first game Jacksonville University recovered from a sluggish start and zipped into a 23-14 lead before Florida found the range.

The Gators then took command and poured in 17 points while Jax was netting only two. Lou Merchant and Paul Mosny sparked the comeback, and the Gators zoomed out front for keeps at 26-25 on George Jung's foul toss four minutes before intermission.

Jax pulled within two points of the Gators on Jerry Hickman's two-point shot which launched second-half scoring. But the Gators were controlling the ball and the boards and the Dolphins never got that close again.

At one stage in the rough and tumble affair 14 straight points were cashed via foul shots before either team hit from field.

Temper flared throughout the contest and a minute from the end fists started flying when JU's Cone and Florida's Cliff Luyk set off a free-for-all with a skirmish under the Dolphin goal. Police restored order and no one was hurt, for the two teams were no more accurate landing punches than they had been shooting goals.

Van Brocklin Heads AP All-NFL Team

Hornung, Brown, Moore
Fill Out Star Backfield

NEW YORK (AP)—Norm Van Brocklin, the old quarterback master of the Philadelphia Eagles, heads the National Football League all-star backfield that also includes Paul Hornung of Green Bay and Lenny Moore of Baltimore at the halfback posts and Jimmy Brown of Cleveland at fullback.

The brilliant quartet was picked for the offensive team on the annual all-star array chosen for the Associated Press by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Van Brocklin, in his final year of football flinging, succeeded Johnny Unitas who led the Baltimore Colts to the championship in 1959.

This time Johnny didn't even make the second team. That honor went to Cleveland's MILK PLUM on his record of few interceptions and 60.4 completion percentage. Unitas led the quarterbacks with 25 touchdown passes but 24 of his aeriels were intercepted.

Although Van Brocklin and his mates beat Green Bay, 17-13, for the championship, the Packers landed six and the Eagles only three of the 22 first team positions.

The offensive and defensive teams, announced Wednesday, also included four colts, two players each from St. Louis, Cleveland and New York, and one man each from Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco. Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Washington and Dallas

Chargers Place 4 on All-AFL

NEW YORK (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers, who meet the Houston Oilers Sunday in Houston for the American Football League championship, placed four men on the 22-man offensive and defensive all-star teams picked for the Associated Press by a panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Quarterback Jack Kemp and halfback Paul Lowe, the Chargers' breakaway threat, made the first team on offense. They were joined in the backfield by halfback Abner Haynes of Dallas and fullback Dave Smith of Houston.

SI AWARD WINNERS PRAISED BY VANDIVER

Atlanta businessmen Eugene T. Barwick and Oscar Thompson were awarded the goal posts of membership on the Sports Illustrated's 1960 Silver Anniversary All-America team by Gov. Vandiver at his office Wednesday.

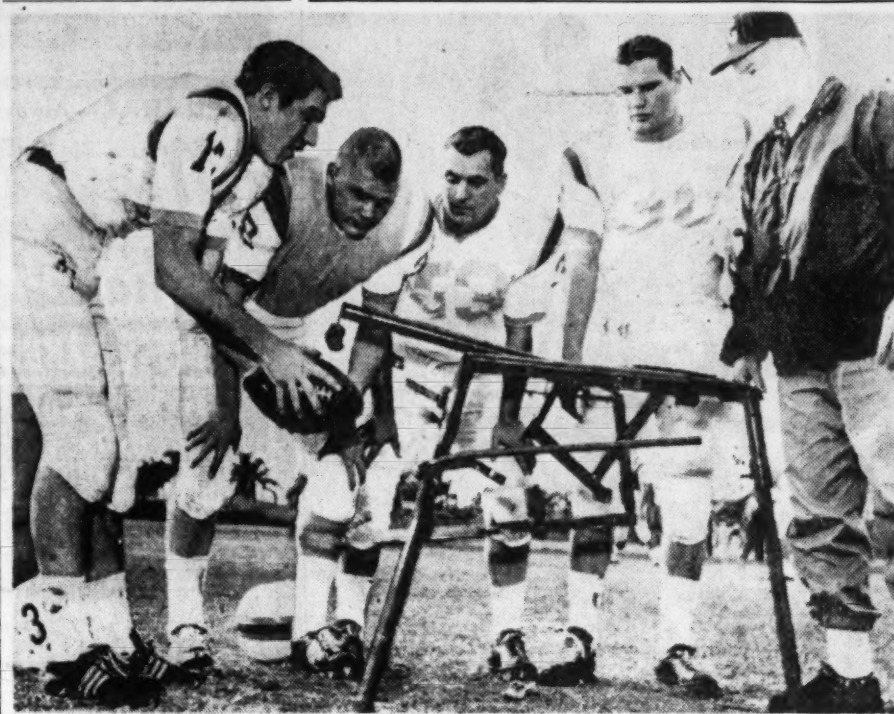

Oscar Thompson

E. T. Barwick

In making the presentation, Gov. Vandiver said: "You two great Georgians share with 23 other Americans two common things: 25 years ago you earned varsity letters in football; and through the intervening years you have acquitted yourselves in careers and public service with outstanding distinction."

"You know that in the intensive competitive world in the last quarter century you have certainly drawn on the lessons learned on the football field—I mean the lessons of tenacity, self-denial and teamwork. Your lives today show that you learned these lessons well. Please accept my humble admiration and sincere congratulations."

Minnesota, Ole Miss, Florida Seen Favorites in Bowl Games

Missouri Liked Over Middies

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK — Minnesota, Mississippi and Missouri, college football's three "mighty M's," rate the edge in three of the top bowl games coming up on the New Year's weekend.

In the others, the nod here goes to Arkansas, Florida, New Mexico State, The Citadel, East All-Stars and the Blue All-Stars in just about as fancy a set of year-enders as anyone could want.

The only one that looks like a mismatch is in the Sugar Bowl where Mississippi, unbeaten but once tied, is a 10 point favorite over 7-3 Rice. Even Minnesota, the nation's No. 1 team, doesn't rate that much of an edge over Washington in the Rose Bowl.

Around the leading bowls:

THE ROSE BOWL—Minnesota (8-1) over Washington (9-1): Washington whooped Wisconsin in the Rose festival last Jan. 1 but Minnesota has only one thing in common with those disappointing Badgers—lack of speed. Minnesota is beefy and agile enough to grind out short gainers of the type that add up to first downs then touchdowns. The Gophers are mountains on defense but they'll have their hands full stopping the passes of Bob Hivner (and perhaps Bob Schloredt) if the Huskies can protect their thrower.

THE ORANGE BOWL—Missouri (9-1) over Navy (9-1): It's stop Joe Bellino or else! For big, mobile Missouri, Navy's all-America halfback, is a dandy and Navy quarterback Hal Spooner is a better passer than generally rated. But Missouri pours on blocking power for runners like Donnie Smith, Mel West and Norris Stevenson. And several of the lads are back hoping to avenge last year's Orange Bowl defeat (14-0) by Georgia.

THE SUGAR BOWL—Mississippi (9-0-1) over Rice (7-3): The Rebels have muscle, depth and a sharp quarterback in Jake Gibbs. Gibbs runs as well as he passes and that's a plenty. Rice, despite a good defense, lost to Georgia Tech, Arkansas and Baylor—two by three points and one by six. If the Owls don't wear out in the second half, they could led by Pervis Atkins and Bob Gaitsers.

Others:

East over the West in San Francisco on more beef, much of it from the Big 10.

Blue over the Gray at Montgomery, Ala., with Bernie Allen of Purdue outpassing Norm Sneed of Wake Forest.

Unseeded Blue Devils Tourney Darkhorse?

Druid Hills, Murphy Rated
Tops in DeKalb Invitational

By TOM STODDARD

Consider Avondale's Blue Devils:

Who are hosting the second DeKalb Invitational Basketball Tournament, starting Thursday night:

Who have Freddie Guy, region 4-AAA's best rebounder and scorer:

Who lost by only four points to Druid Hills at Druid Hills:

Who have lost just one other game, with Guy sitting out most of the second half, and won six others handily:

And who are not seeded.

Despite the above facts, there is a tangible reason why the Blue Devils were slighted by the seeding coaches. Both top-seeded teams, Druid Hills and Murphy, have better won-loss records, and this was the major factor.

It would appear, though, that Avondale should wear large and ostentatious signs reading "Number One Dark Horse." For with Guy and Ed Pritchett nearing top form after helping the Avondale Gridders to the state finals, and the home court advantage, they may have enough things going for them to offset a pairing disadvantage.

The Blue Devils meet Gordon (44) in their first tourney game on Thursday night, and then if they win, must meet second-seeded Murphy to reach the finals. Druid Hills needs only to get by the winner of the Stone Mountain-Southwest DeKalb game on opening night to play for the title.

Druid Hills probably deserves the favorites role. The Red Devils have won ten straight (three in pre-season play), getting balanced scoring from Jack Manton, Edwin Horne and Wes Field, a 6-5 sophomore. Major Moose gets his share, too, and is tough defensively.

Murphy has won seven and lost one to unbeaten defending state champs Sylvan. Their big scorer

Player Begins Golfing Tour

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Gary Player, South African golfing ace, left by air Wednesday for New York on the first leg of a 12-month golfing tour that will take him around the world.

WOMEN'S GOLF

Mrs. William Lee New President Of Cherokee Women's Golf Assn.

Cherokee Women's Golf Association, on the youthful side in membership and experience, in three years has developed into one of Atlanta's largest go-ahead ladies organizations.

Invited to become a member of the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association this past spring Cherokee members made no mass assault on par but out of the welter of this competition they did reach into the upper echelon

While residing in Carrollton she won the Sunset Hills Country Club championship three times and headed up the women's group one year.

This past winter Mrs. Lee coached the winning team (Christ the King) in the all-city Catholic basketball league.

Mrs. David Duncan has dominated the two club championships held over the tough Cherokee course, successfully defending her title in September.

Slated for tournament chairman is Mrs. O. C. Hart; secretary, Mrs. R. L. Weathers; treasurer, Mrs. Lewis M. Crowe; handicapper, Mrs. David Duncan; hospitality, Mrs. Harry L. Avery and ex-officio, F. A. Newcomb.

Joyce Ziske, fourth ranking LPGA member in scoring average and money winnings writes she will quit the tour to be married to Tom Malison of her home city, Watford, Wis. Malison is active in golf and bowling.

Mrs. R. E. Budd, with a plus 1, placed first in the AWGA turkey tournament. Results: Mrs. Al Means, even, Mrs. R. I. Gunnell, Mrs. W. D. May, Mrs. C. C. Jordan and Mrs. R. B. Vance, minus 3. Mrs. T. E. McGeachy, minus 4. Mrs. Tom Northcutt, Mrs. William Lee, minus 5.

North Fulton's annual Christmas play-day event was won by Mrs. Douglas Wright, Mrs. H. A. Reynolds and Mrs. Roger Rhodes.

To date, five Georgia proctees, Louise Suggs, Mary Lena Faulk, Ronnie Colby, Barbara Greene and Janice Phelps will participate in the Sea Island Ladies Open Invitational Jan. 12-15. Local amateur entries neared the two dozen mark with Atlanta Women's handicap champion Mrs. Guy Carpenter joining her daughter Mrs. Jack Fulwiler as an entry.

Well Gas Kills Keeper, 2 Others at London Zoo

LONDON (UPI)—Poison gas killed the head keeper of the reptile house at London Zoo and two other men Wednesday.

The triple tragedy occurred when two engineers, John Monn, 59, and Peter Robinson, came to repair a well which supplies water to the reptile house and the aquarium next door.

The men raised the lid on the six-foot-deep well and a cloud of gas poured up and surrounded the men. Choking, they fell into the well.

The bodies were found minutes later by head keeper Edward Dexter, 46, and assistant keeper Anthony Hodgson, 21. Shouting for help, they rushed to the well, and were overcome.

Other zoo workers heard their shouts and ran to the well, but they were too late to help Dexter, Monn or Robinson. Hodgson was pulled out alive but in serious condition.

Officials said they had no idea what kind of gas killed the men or how it accumulated in such lethal volume in the well.

Castro Plans Big New Year

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro plans a busy New Year's weekend to celebrate the second anniversary of his revolution.

The semi-official newspaper Revolution said he will attend a buffet supper and party for 11,000 people at a suburban Havana military camp. On Jan. 2 he will review a military parade. He will speak at both events.

Ah, testimonials. Ah, surveys.

Not that we don't believe in them. Not that we aren't tempted ourselves to advertise some of the complimentary letters we receive.

The reason we don't is simple. Our service is only as good as you think it is.

Naturally, we like to think it's the finest you can find, but we'll take your opinion—gladly.

To help you in forming one, you might ask our Research Department for a current review of your present investment program.

Simply list the securities you own and the prices you paid, tell us something about your over-all situation and objectives, and mail your letter to the address below.

Meyer Schleifer, a West Coast champion who has few peers in play of the hand, met today's deal in a recent Los Angeles rubber bridge match and managed to make his small slam at diamonds. Intrigued with the hand, Meyer saw to it that the hand made an appearance in a duplicate contest the following week, and he was further intrigued to find that although the North-South pairs had no trouble reaching the six-diamond contract, not one declarer took more than 11 tricks.

DO YOUR WORRIES GO TO YOUR STOMACH?

Worry can cause Acid Upset... indigestion, heartburn and gas. Soothe and settle the upset gas with TUMS! 3 rolls, 30¢.

As Meyer was telling us the story, a friend came up and said to him: "You know that six-diamond hand you showed me last night? I still can't get the answer; how does it go?"

Schleifer was pleasant but firm, advising his friend to keep working on it.

If you cannot solve the problem, you can find the winning play below, but first see if you can take 12 tricks at diamonds with the South cards after West opens the ace of hearts and shifts to a diamond.

ANSWER

South makes the small slam at diamonds by what Schleifer calls a "backward squeeze" in the black suits. He chooses this name because it is not West who is squeezed but East, who sits over dummy and has the privilege of discarding last.

Declarer takes the diamond in his hand, ruffs his remaining heart in North and plays three more rounds of diamonds, hoping that one defender is long in both spades and clubs. This is the situation:

Declarer leads the four of diamonds, discarding the club 5 from the board, and East is squeezed. If East discards a spade, South will clear the king-queen of spades from his hand, lead a club to the ace-king in dummy, drop the spade jack under the ace and claim the spade 6 at the end.

If East discards a club, declar-

Detroit Battles Wave of Crime

DETROIT (UPI)—The entire 4,292-man Detroit police force was ordered on a six-day work week Wednesday as the city launched a crash program aimed at ending a wave of killings and holdups.

Police Commissioner Herbert Hart announced the new program following the death Wednesday morning of Mrs. Betty James, a 26-year-old mother of three boys, who was beaten by a Negro assailant Tuesday.

DeKalb Panel to Study Proposals to Speed Vote

A special DeKalb County committee is studying proposals to speed-up voting procedures within the county. The committee is expected to make its first report to the commissioners and the county's legislative delegation in about two weeks.

Claude Blount, chairman of the county commission, named to the committee J. O. Bowen, William Evans and Brice Manning Jr., all DeKalb County commission members; Mrs. Katherine Mann, DeKalb County ordinary, and M. O. Sams, DeKalb director of finance.

Also serving on the committee are two members from the executive committee of each of the two political parties in DeKalb.

The committee was named to study ways in which DeKalb voters might be spared long waits at the polls.

Proposals expected to come before the committee include the purchase of new voting machines, the establishment of additional voting precincts and legislative measures whereby DeKalb voters will not have to vote on "constitutional amendments in the excessive numbers and in the confusing presentation in the future."

Ring Out the Old Year With Fondues, Cheese Trays

By PATRICIA DEATON

Constitution Food Editor

Ring out the old—bring in the new! There's nothing more fun than planning a party for the last night of the year—New Year's Eve—a grand finale for the year as well as the holidays.

When friends gather at your house to welcome the New Year, you'll want to serve simple fare with a glamorous elegance.

Cheese is fast becoming an important part of holiday and food plans—giving as well as serving. Perhaps soon the serving of cheese at holiday time will be as traditional as the serving of other holiday favorites such as cookies, fruit cake, fruits and candies.

Cheese trays can be real hostess savers. They may be prepared ahead of time, covered with transparent wrapping and stored in the refrigerator reserving precious last minutes before guests arrive for other chores.

Remove cheese trays from refrigerator thirty minutes before serving time. Baby Gouda and Edam cheeses are at their flavorful best when served at room temperature. Garnish with greens and serve with tiny rolls, breads, fruits in season, cookies and hot beverages.

OTHER WAYS

There are other ways of serving cheeses and one is especially a favorite of winter sports enthusiasts—participants and spectators alike. The traditional cheese fondue that comes from Switzerland is happy eating when served with an American favorite food, hot crunchy French fried potatoes.

This glamorous and easy to prepare company food, simple but hearty enough to satisfy the most stimulated appetite, is served in a chafing dish or fondue dish with a party flourish that makes it special.

The dish is so old that no one knows when it had its beginning. Dating certainly from the middle ages, this subtle, deceptively simple cheese dish was first put in the form of a recipe by the master French epicure, Brillat-Savarin, almost two hundred years ago.

As a matter of fact, the master himself first introduced the dish to America, in Boston, in 1796, recording the incident in an off-hand sort of way, "Whilst passing through Boston, I taught the restaurant-keeper, Julien, to make a fondue, or eggs cooked with cheese".

The recipe began with as many eggs as you liked, "a lump of butter, a good deal of pepper, no salt—and proceeded to gentle stirring, always in the same direction, with a wooden spoon until perfection of textures had been reached.

JUST RIGHT

When it is just right, it is placed in a hot dish over an alcohol burner to keep warm without cooking further. Then the joyful ritual of eating the succulent sauce began—each guest skewering small bits of crusty bread on a long fork, dipping deep into the fondue dish, swirling around the edge, and eating the morsel as rapidly as possible while the next guest, in turn, dips and swirls in the same direction.

It is the custom to keep the bubbly cheese mixture ever-moving in rhythmic motion as the guests dunk. Skewer the bits of crusty bread, soft part first so that the fork tines secure the crust firmly.

When the fondue has finally cooked down, the host in proper Swiss tradition must fork out the last of the fondue, dividing it equally among the guests. There are as many ways of making fondue as there are makers of the dish.

There's something about this small melting pot that draws friends in closer and what night is more appropriate than New Year's Eve?

FONDUE AMERICAINE

- 1/2 clove garlic
- 2 tbsp. butter
- 2 tbsp. flour
- 1 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1 cup milk and cream, combined
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 cup grated process American or Old English cheese
- 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese (Emmenthaler or process Gruyere)
- Bread cubes

Rub earthenware chafing dish with garlic. Add butter and melt. Stir in flour and then mustard until smooth. Pour in cream-milk mixture all at once. Immediately stir vigorously and constantly. Continue to cook, stirring until thickened. Add cottage cheese. Stir constantly until mixture is almost smooth. Add other cheeses. Stir until cheese is melted and mixture is smooth and piping hot. 3 cups fondue. Serve with bread cubes.

Another fondue, known as Quick Pizza Fondue, is quick and easy. It actually can be prepared in about 10 minutes, then kept warm in a chafing dish or fondue pot. No exotic ingredients are required.

Canned stewed tomatoes, process cheese, salt and Tabasco are the sum total of items needed although green pepper used as a garnish completes the holiday color scheme. Whenever you're preparing a cheese dish, remember Tabasco because just a little does wonders for bland flavors.

QUICK PIZZA FONDUE

- 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 pound process cheese, grated
- 1/2 cup diced green pepper

In heavy saucepan, combine tomatoes, Tabasco and salt.

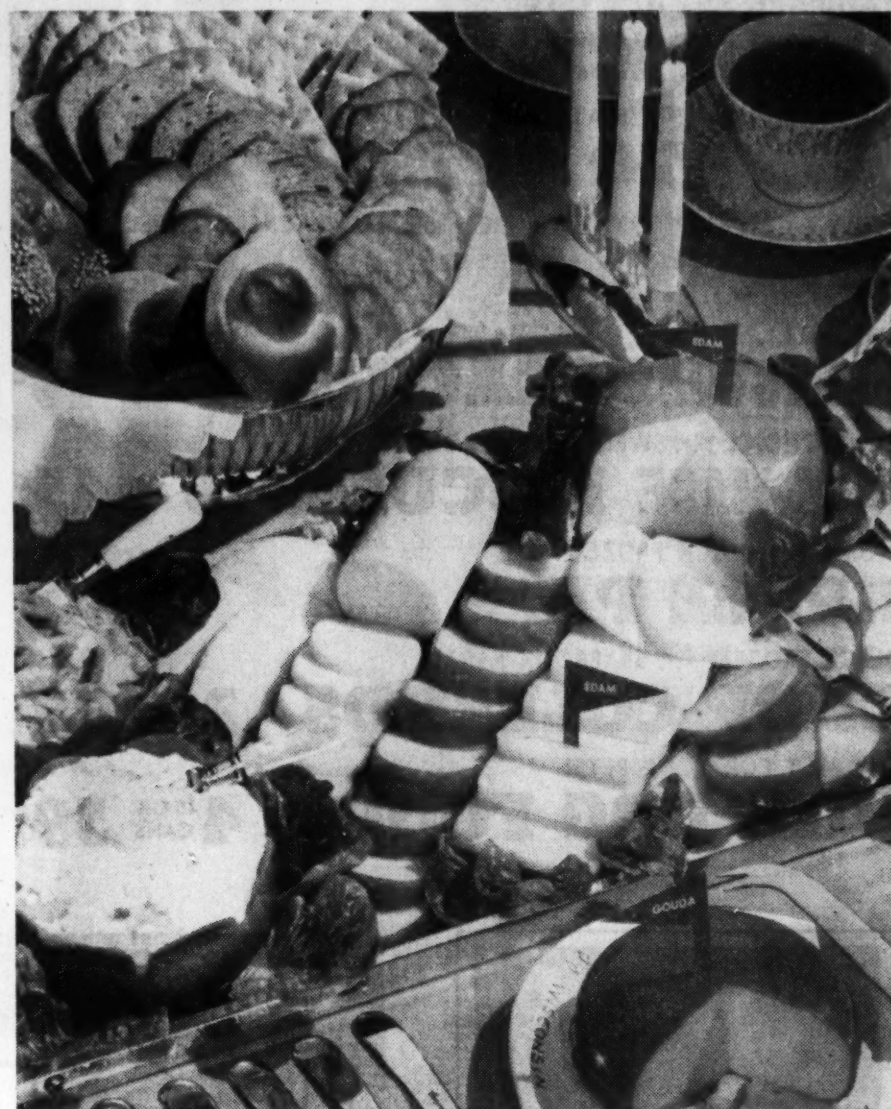

Place over low heat and bring to a boil; simmer 5 minutes to blend flavors. Stir in grated cheese and cook about a minute or until melted. Pour into chafing dish or one that can be kept hot and garnish with diced green pepper. Serve with French bread. Yields 2 1/2 cups.

For another version of fondue, try this Baked Cheese Fondue recipe.

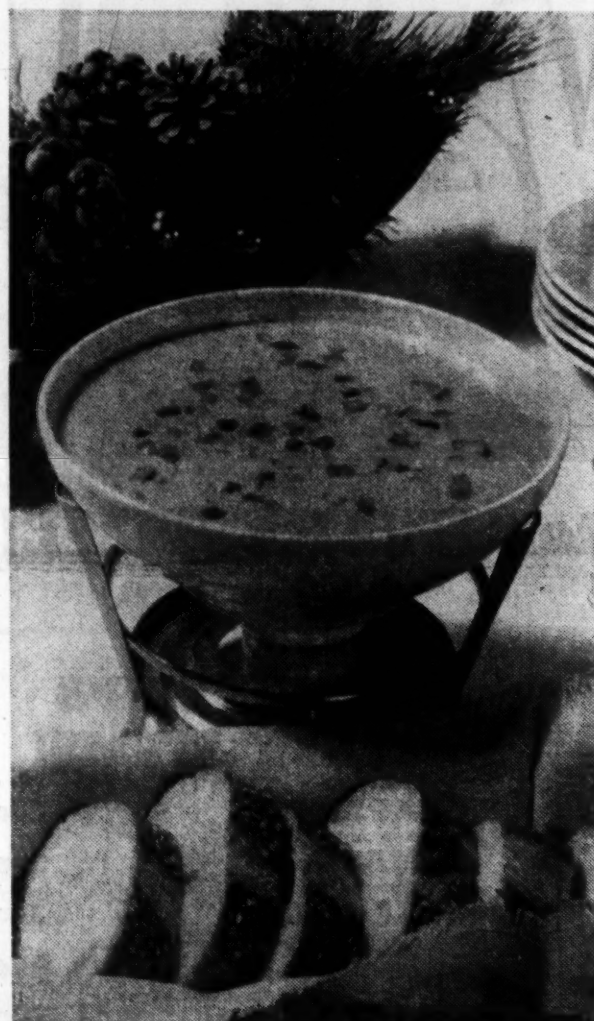

BAKED CHEESE FONDUE

- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1 tsp. butter
- 2 cups small fresh bread crumbs
- 1 cup grated process American cheese
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
- 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Scald milk. Stir in butter. Remove from heat; add crumbs and cheeses; mix well. Beat egg yolks slightly; add first mixture gradually, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered shallow 2-qt. baking dish. Bake in pan of hot water in moderate oven, 325 degrees, 1 hr. or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. 6 servings.

Parmesan Tops Succulent Vegetable

Here's a wonderful way to bring those colorful, tender canned blue lake green beans to the table.

Quick and easy to make, you simply heat the colorful beans in condensed cream of mushroom soup. Serve with hard-cooked, egg slices and a sprinkling of bread crumbs which have been sauteed with a bit of Parmesan cheese and summer savory. These fine beans are grown in the Pacific Northwest especially for canning. Look for the words "blue lake" on the label.

PARMESAN GREEN BEANS

1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 tsp. summer savory
Salt to taste
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. instant minced onion

1 (1-lb.) can cut blue lake green beans
1 (10 1/2-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

Saute bread crumbs, cheese and seasonings in butter until golden brown. Add onion, mix well and set aside. Drain beans, reserving two tablespoons bean liquor. Blend soup and bean liquor in saucepan; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add beans and simmer until heated. Serve beans in mushroom sauce topped with slices of egg and sprinkled with the toasted bread crumbs. Makes 4 servings.

Morsels Have New Twist

The Scotch definitely are not Scotch when they make their famous rich shortbread cookies.

"Almond Shortbread Strips" are delicate morsels of goodness, but with a new twist: ground almonds.

These crispy nuts add their distinctive flavor and texture to many other old favorites such as sugar cookies, oatmeal drops, chocolate refrigerator cookies.

ALMOND SHORTBREAD STRIPS

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon almond extract
4 egg yolks
 $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

Fancy Up Eggs

Fancy up creamed eggs by adding pimiento, green pepper and mushrooms to the sauce. Serve in patty shells.

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup ground unblanched almonds cream together shortening, sugar and almond extract. Beat in egg yolks. Sift flour and salt into creamed mixture; beat to smooth dough. Blend in almonds. Roll thin on lightly floured board, cut into strips about 2 by 1 inch. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes or until brown. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Burnt Sugar Cake Is Ace High

Ace high with card party guests when its refreshment time is a burnt sugar cake and a hot beverage.

Made from a packaged mix and baked in a rectangular cake pan, the frosted cake is then trimmed with chopped Brazil nuts.

Since these nuts are so flavorful, additional chopped Brazils are also added to the spicy cake batter. The nuts also contribute texture interest and give moistness to the cake.

BRAZIL NUT CARD CAKE

1 pkg. burnt sugar cake mix
1 cup finely chopped Brazil nuts

BRAZIL CARD CAKE
Nuts Give Cake Moisture

Prepare burnt sugar cake mix according to package directions. Add chopped nuts to batter. Turn into greased and floured 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degree F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Cool on rack 10 to 15 minutes; remove from pan. Frost with Burnt Sugar Frosting, prepared according to directions on cake mix package, or with other favorite frosting. Make card character trim by placing heart, diamond, spade and club cutters on cake; 2 rows of 4 cutters each. Fill outline formed by cookie cutters with additional chopped Brazil nuts. Yields: 8 servings.

Dish Bestows Happy Content on All

Come one, come all... the day is brisk and here's a dish that fortifies, sustains and bestows happy content on all who eat it. That, of course, will most certainly include the family.

Or it could be guests at a supper party, or the youngsters' friends for Saturday lunch. But no matter who, where or when, you can count on this big savory casserole receiving a great big welcome.

The dish comes out of the oven, gently a-bubble, breathing of apples, of turkey, of seasonings and other savory ingredients. It's filled with onion, green peppers, pimientos, sliced olives and canned apple sauce. Not to mention ham and noodles and lots of rich gravy. And the turkey itself, of course. The dish offers a lot to eat... all of it hearty, relishing and satisfying.

TURKEY-HAM CASSEROLE

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup diced green pepper
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 4-oz. can whole pimientos, diced
- 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. oregano
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked ham
- 2 1/2 cups cooked noodles
- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 2 tbsps. melted butter
- Few grains paprika

Saute onion and green pepper in butter or margarine until lightly browned. Add pimientos, olives, salt and oregano. Using 1 1/2 cups of noodles, place in layers the turkey, vegetables, ham and the noodles in buttered 2-quart casserole, ending with vegetable layer. Spoon apple sauce over top. Toss remaining noodles with 2 tablespoons melted butter; place in ring around edge of casserole and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in hot oven, 375 degrees, 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.

Children Treasure Fancy Shapes Made From Her Ginger Cookie Recipe

Since it is impossible for me to test each of the recipes, I assume that you have already tested them in your kitchen. If there are any recipes that you want or have, don't hesitate to write.

PATRICIA DEATON,
Constitution Food Editor.

THESE OLD-FASHIONED GINGER CAKES are favorites of my family. Children enjoy cutting out their own cookies.

The dough can be kept in the refrigerator and used anytime. Roll out and cut into fancy shapes or roll out like a flat biscuit.

OLD-FASHIONED GINGER CAKES

3 eggs 1 tsp. soda
1 cup sugar 2 tbsp. vinegar
1 cup cane syrup 1 tsp. salt
1 cup cooking oil 1 tsp. ginger

Combine sugar, eggs, cane syrup and cooking oil. Dissolve soda in vinegar. Add salt and ginger with soda mixture to first mixture. Sift enough flour into ingredients to make a stiff dough. Roll out 1/4-inch thick and cut. Bake in 350 degree oven for 20 minutes or until done.

IN THE "ANNIE DENNIS" COOKBOOK, there is an old-fashioned recipe for Lady Baltimore Fruit Cake. I have been trying to locate the recipe and if any of your readers can help me, I would be most grateful.

MRS. PANSY PAUL BAILEY

I ENJOY THIS COLUMN OF interesting, old-fashioned recipes so very much. Here is my favorite recipe for Virginia Cornmeal Pound Cake. It will become a favorite in your home.

VIRGINIA CORNMEAL POUND CAKE

1/2 cup shortening 1 1/4 cups fine ground cornmeal
1/2 tsp. nutmeg 1/4 tsp. salt
3/4 cup honey or sugar 1/2 cup cake flour
2 eggs 1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder

Beat shortening and add sugar, creaming well. Add eggs, lightly beaten. Sift all dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Pour into a well-greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees F., for 35 minutes. When cool, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

MRS. C. SIBLES

EIGHT OR NINE YEARS AGO, I got a recipe out of this paper for Lemon Cheese filling. The filling was juicy and wonderful.

I have lost it and would be so glad if somebody would send me the recipe.

Here is a recipe for W. H. of Atlanta. The recipe can be used as an old-fashioned Cornbread pone or Spoon Bread.

SPOON BREAD

2 cups corn meal 2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 cup shortening 1 tsp. salt

Sift meal into a bowl with salt and baking powder. Add shortening and sweet milk and make a stiff batter. To make pone Cornbread, use less milk.

So many times I wish for a delicious fruit cobbler and my family's favorite is cherry.

FAVORITE CHERRY COBBLER

1 can cherries with juice 3 tbsp. butter
1/2 cup water 1 cup sugar

Place ingredients in a cobbler dish.

TOPPING

1 cup flour 3 tbsp. butter
1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk

Cream sugar with butter. Add milk and sift in flour. Mix to cake batter stage. Drop by spoonfuls on top of cherry mixture. Bake at 400 degrees F. until crust is done. You can use apples, peaches or berries in place of the cherries.

HERE'S A REAL OLD Watermelon Rind Preserve recipe. It's real good and not too hard to prepare.

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES

After the rind is prepared, weigh 8 pounds of rind and place in rather salty water for a day and night. On the following day, place the rind in fresh water to which 2 tablespoons of powdered alum is added. Let stand a day and night. On the following morning put the rind in fresh cold water and boil until a straw will pierce the rind. Drain and add 8 pounds of sugar and a fresh, sliced pineapple. Boil until clear. If rind begins to turn white, a little water must be added.

MRS. W. DREW MORGAN

WHILE READING YOUR FOOD COLUMN, I noticed that Mrs. W. D. Fuller of Thomson, wants a recipe for Coconut Pineapple Cake. This is a favorite of mine.

By omitting coconut and pineapple, you have a delicious plain cake. The recipe makes 3 large layers when baked in 9-inch layer pans.

COCONUT PINEAPPLE CAKE

3 cups flour 1 cup buttermilk
1/2 tsp. soda 1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. baking powder 1/2 cup crushed pineapple,
1/2 tsp. salt well drained
2 cups sugar 1/2 cup coconut, flaked or 1 cup shortening grated
4 eggs

Sift together in a small bowl, the flour, soda, baking powder and salt. Cream together the sugar and shortening. Beat eggs with creamed mixture until fluffy. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Add vanilla and beat about 3 minutes. Fold in pineapple and coconut. Bake in 10-inch tube pan at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour.

MRS. J. H. THACKER
Turnerville, Georgia

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO this recipe for Lane Cake appeared in The Constitution. It has been a favorite of mine since then.

LANE CAKE

10 eggs 1/2 cup water
2 cups sugar 2 cups baking powder
1 tsp. lemon flavoring 2 cups butter or 1 1/2 cups
5 cups flour creamed shortening
1 cup rich milk

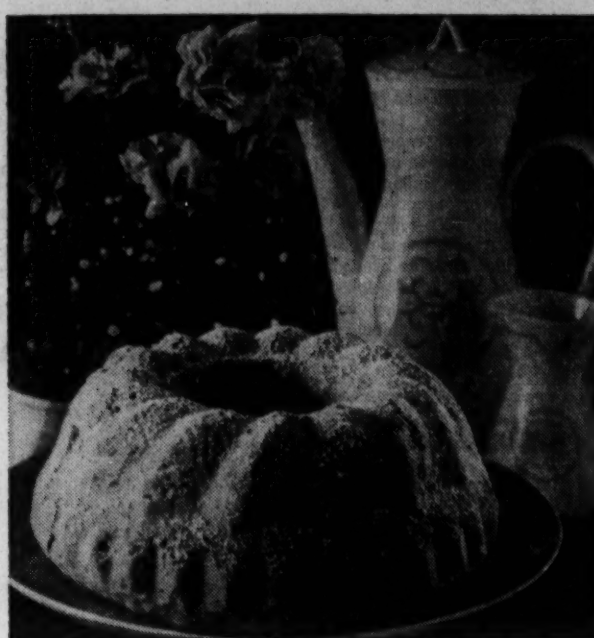

Beat eggs until thin. Cream butter and sugar, add eggs to mixture. Continue to beat. Add milk and water in which the baking powder has been added. Add flour which has been sifted, then the flavoring. Cook in three layers.

FILLING

5 egg yolks 1 cup raisins
1 glass of wine 1 cup nuts
2 tbsps. cornstarch 2 cups coconut
1 cup sugar

Beat egg yolks, add sugar and wine. Cook in double boiler until thick. Add cornstarch dissolved in water. Remove from fire, add other ingredients. Spread 1/2-inch thick between layers and on top.

FEATHER-LIGHT PECAN CAKE
Please Almost Every Taste With Coffee

There's an Easy Version For Old-Time Favorite

Around this time of year the old-time favorite foods of grandmother's day appear on the holiday table. And one traditional festive treat is feather-light pecan cake.

Although you probably have your own recipe for pecan cake, here's an easy version, which you may want to try. In this recipe the addition of tangy sour cream gives the delicate-textured cake its unique flavor.

Whether it is served at an open house buffet or at coffee time, this delicious-tasting pecan cake is sure to please almost every taste.

PECAN CAKE

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup sour cream
1 cup finely chopped pecans

Sift together dry ingredients. Cream butter until fluffy. Gradually beat in sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in vanilla. Blend in flour mixture and sour cream in thirds, mixing just until smooth. Fold in pecans. Turn batter into greased and floured

Fruit Salad Is Winter Treat

A tasty winter fruit salad is made with slices of orange arranged on iceberg lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with minced fresh rosemary or green onion and serve with French dressing.

Croquettes Change With Mashed Potato

Thinking of preparing salmon croquettes for lunch or supper? For a change, try adding mashed potatoes instead of bread crumbs to the flaked salmon and egg. Season with lemon as well as salt and pepper.

COMET RICE HOPPING JOHN

Approximate cost—28c

1 cup uncooked Comet Rice
1/4 lb. salt pork or bacon

Sook the peas overnight in enough water to cover. Drain. Add 2 cups of water and the salt pork, and boil slowly 1 1/2 hours. Add more water, if needed, during this period, but at the end of 1 1/2 hours the peas should be almost dry.

Main Dish Serves 4

1 cup dried black-eyed peas (or other dried peas)
Salt and pepper to taste

Add 2 cups hot water, 1 teaspoon salt, and the Comet Rice. Stir. Simmer for 20 minutes. (Again, add small amount extra water if needed to keep the mixture from boiling dry). If you wish, add a small onion, chopped, when meat is added.

BIRD SPARKS Budget In Final Act

Let the holiday bird play a final engagement in delicious "Turkey Monterey," a hearty entree that is good to the budget.

Subtly seasoned with dinner wine, sparked with meaty ripe olive wedges and enriched with cheese, this is wonderful served over buttered noodles or rice. Add a salad—apple and grapefruit would be good—and dinner is ready.

TURKEY MONTEREY

1 cup ripe olives
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
2 tbsps. flour
1 1/4 cups milk
1/4 cup dinner wine
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. paprika
3 cups diced cooked turkey
1/4 cup chopped pimiento
1/2 cup chopped green pepper (optional)
1 cup shredded jack cheese
Buttered rice or noodles

Quarter ripe olives. Melt butter in a large skillet. Blend in flour; add milk, stirring constantly until mixture boils and is thickened. Blend in wine, salt, pepper and paprika. Add olives, turkey, pimiento and green pepper. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add cheese and stir gently until cheese is melted. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
